FRANCE.

A Conservative Combination in the Assembly—Pledges to be Demanded From M. Thiers.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—A meeting of the Deputies of the Assembly belonging to the Right wing and Left Centre, was held to-night. A coalition of the conservative factions in the Assembly was agreed to, and a resolution was adopted declaring that while they recognize the impossibility of a restoration of the monarchy, they hold that the issue lies between the Conservatives and the Radicals; demanding pledges from the President that he will adhere to a strictly conservative line of policy, and warning him he can no longer have their support should he refuse to give the assurances required.

The Question of a Republic—Sensitiveness of the Monarchists.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—In the Assembly today, the bill for the reform of the jury system was debated. A Deputy took occasion to remark in the course of his speech that the Republic was definitely established. He was instantly interrupted by exclamations from all sides, and it was some time before the agitation of the Chamber subsided.

GERMANY.

Life Peers to be Created in Prussia to Carry the Country Reform Bill—Illness of Prince Bismarck.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—Official journals continue to intimate that the King will secure a majority in the Upper House of the Diet by appointing a sufficient number of life Peers, if necessary, to carry the Country Reform bill.

Prince Bismarck is ill. One of his physicians in this city has gone to Varzin to attend him.

SPAIN.

Illness of the King—Critical Situation in the Cadiz Arsenal.

MADRID, Nov. 14.—King Amadeus is confined to the Palace by illness. The Epoca, in its issue today, calls the attention of the Government to what it terms the gravity of the situation at the Government Arsenal near Cadiz, where, a recent letter in its columns stated, a conspiracy had been discovered. The Epoca yet fears serious troubles among the men engaged there, and urges the Government to take precautions for the instant suppression of any disloyal sentiment. It is feared that there is an understanding between the men in the arsenal and disaffected parties in Cadiz.

The King's Indisposition Not Serious.

MADRID, Nov. 14—Evening.—The indisposition of the King is caused by a cold, and is in no wise serious.

INDIA.

Visit of the Viceroy to Bombay—Preparations for Gorgeous Reception.

BOMBAY, Nov. 14.—Lord Northbrook, the Viceroy, is now visiting Bombay for the first time. On his arrival in the city, he had a most brilliant reception. His Lordship will hold a public audience on Saturday, when many of the Indian Sovereigns and Princes will be received. Great preparations are making for the ceremony, which will be accompanied by all the gorgeous display usual on such occasions in India.

CUBA.

Active Operations of the Insurgents—Successful Raids on Two Places.

HAVANA, Nov. 13, via KEY WEST, Nov. 14.—The insurgents attacked the San Ramon plantation near Manzanillo, burning the place, and carrying off about forty persons employed there. The troops are in pursuit.

The insurgents attacked La Casimba, near Guantanamo, sacked three stores, and made off with the booty. The troops attacked and defeated the insurgents on the following day.

Gov. Obregon says the insurgents intended a raid on the plains of Guantanamo, but owing to their defeat were compelled to give up the project.

The Congressional Investigating Committee in Kansas.

LEAVENWORTH, Kansas, Nov. 14.—The Sub-committee of the House Judiciary Committee, authorized to visit Kansas and prosecute their investigations looking to the impeachment of Judge Delahay, of the United States District Court, met here today and commenced taking testimony. Of four members of the Committee only two were present—Messrs. Wilson, of Indiana, and Eldridge, of Wisconsin. Mr. D. R. Anthony was examined in reference to Delahay's habits and the Osborn-Ingersoll draft, and A. W. Clark in reference to the Brown case. The investigation was a secret one. But little evidence has been elicited so far.

THE STATE DEFICIT.

The Controller and Judges of the Court of Appeals Say it Must be Raised in this Year's Tax.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 14.—Controller Hopkins has issued the following circular:

STATE OF NEW-YORK, CONTROLLER'S OFFICE, ALBANY, Nov. 14, 1872.

Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of ——:

SIR: Under a law passed at the last session of the Legislature, I incorporated into the State tax for the current year $3,500,000 of the total equalized valuation of the State, to meet and cover the State debt or deficiency in the Treasury of some $6,000,000.

Under the authority contained in the twelfth section of the seventh article of the Constitution, the same Legislature, by act, chapter 700, passed on the 15th of May, authorized the question of funding this debt to be submitted to a vote of the people at the last election. The last clause of that section of the Constitution provides that no such law shall be submitted to be voted upon within three months after its passage, or at any general election when any other law or any bill or any amendment to the Constitution shall be submitted to be voted for or against.

On the 17th day of May, and two days after the passage of the said act, chapter 700, the Legislature passed another act in direct conflict therewith, being chapter 757, authorizing the question of an amendment to the Constitution, providing for the continuance of the Commission of Appeals, in accordance with the concurrent resolutions passed by two preceding Legislatures, to be submitted to a vote of the people at said election. The last-named act having been passed at a subsequent day, took the precedence and virtually repealed the act authorizing the vote on funding the debt to be submitted to a vote of the people at said election. I understand that votes have been cast at the recent election for and against this Funding act, and it is possible there may be a majority vote in favor of it.

If such is the case, it is, in the opinion of the undersigned, clearly unconstitutional and void. The tax must therefore be levied and collected in pursuance of the circular heretofore issued from this Department. This circular is issued that there may be no misunderstanding or misapprehension as to the necessity of levying, collecting, and paying the tax into the Treasury, whatever may have been the vote on the question. In view of the importance of this question to the credit of the State, and the healthy condition of its finances in case any portion of the State should omit or refuse to pay this tax, I have informally submitted the question to the Court of Appeals, all the Judges being present, and I have their authority to state that they unanimously concur in the views expressed in this circular.

Will you please submit this communication to the Board of Supervisors of your county?

Very respectfully yours,
NELSON K. HOPKINS,
Controller.

GEORGIA.

United States Marshals, who Kept Order at the Polls Nov. 5, Indicted and Arrested for Carrying Concealed Weapons on the Occasion.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 14.—Under instructions from Gov. Smith, made through the Attorney-General for the State, the United States Marshals appointed to keep order at the polls on the 5th inst. have been indicted and placed under arrest for carrying concealed weapons near the polls.

The official returns from the First Savannah Congressional District defeat Sloan, Republican, by a small majority. Sloan will probably contest the election before Congress.

Republican Meeting in Savannah—Better Feeling Among the Masses of the Party—Democrats to be Prosecuted.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

SAVANNAH, Nov. 14.—The largest Republican meeting ever held in Southern Georgia, met last night in the Park in this city, to rejoice over the election of Grant and Wilson. Col. James Atkins, Collector of the Port, presided. Ex-Attorney Gen. Akerman, Col. Farrow, Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, and others, addressed the meeting. Fully 4,000 persons were present. Great enthusiasm was manifested. The Republican Party of Georgia is in better condition than at any time since 1868. The Republican State Central Committee met in this city on Tuesday and adjourned yesterday. Steps were taken to more thoroughly organize the party, and prosecute all those who violate the United States Election laws. The United States Circuit Court is now in session in this city, and a large number of Democrats are to be prosecuted for frauds at the late elections.

LOUISIANA.

Progress of the Counting of the Vote—A Question for the Courts.

NEW-ORLEANS, Nov. 14.—In New-Orleans Parish 29,054 votes have been counted. Greeley's net majority is 9,820.

There is no new development regarding the Returning Board. The matter is before the Courts.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

Grant's Majority on the Full Vote 5,439.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 14.—The full returns of the State, with the exception of Wentworth, a station where there was probably no election, give Grant 37,236, Greeley 31,495, and scattering 302; Grant's plurality, 5,741; majority, 5,439.

INDIANA.

Message of Gov. Baker to the Legislature.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 14.—Gov. Baker delivered his message to the Legislature, in joint convention, this afternoon. He recommends that a provision be made at this session of the Legislature for calling a convention to revise the State Constitution; recommends the building of two additional insane hospitals, and the enlargement of the present Institute for the Blind; also that provision be made for the completion of the House of Refuge and other State buildings.

KANSAS.

Republican Majority, 33,709—The Legislature Overwhelmingly Republican.

TOPEKA, Kansas, Nov. 14.—Official returns show a Republican majority of 33,709, a Republican gain of 13,500 over the election of 1871. The Legislature stands 119 Republicans to 14 Democrats.

CALIFORNIA.

Grant's Majority in Thirty-Seven Counties About 12,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 14.—Complete returns have been received from thirty-seven counties. Thirty-two counties give Grant 12,500 majority, and five give a majority for Greeley of 600, leaving Grant about 11,900 majority in the State.

MISSOURI.

Democratic Majority, 25,640 in 112 Counties—Four Republican and Nine Democratic Congressmen Chosen.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 14.—Returns from 112 counties in this State give Greeley 25,640 majority. Returns from 106 counties give Woodson, for Governor, 21,372 majority. Col. Hay, Republican, in the Fifth District, is defeated by a small majority, which leaves the Congressional delegation four Republicans and nine Democrats.

Westchester County Election Returns.

Official election returns for Westchester County have been received. Greeley receives a majority of 767. In the First Assembly District, a majority of 654 for Herring, Republican, and a majority of four for Wight, Republican, in the Second District. In the Third District, Husted, Republican, has a majority of 502. In the First School District, Palmer, Republican, is elected by a majority of 1,198; in the Second District, Bolton, Republican, by 766, and in the Third District, Barrett, by 417.

Receivers of Taxes were elected in the following towns: Cortlandt, George E. Craft; Greenburg, Daniel W. King; Rye, Thomas H. Halpin; Yonkers, Kellogg Francis.

AMONG THE CINDERS.

Salvage from the Boston Fire from Fifteen to Sixty Per Cent.

Three Hundred Million Dollars' Worth of Property Uncovered by Insurance Bankruptcies—Opening the Safes—Confidence Steadily Increasing—Measures of Relief.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—As sufferers by the fire become better acquainted with the nature and extent of their losses, the feeling of confidence grows stronger. The salvage is found to vary from fifteen to sixty per cent. in proportion to the loss, and as schedules of property are being made out with promptness, and policies and proofs of loss are in some cases already in, the work of adjustment will be an easy matter. Many of the policy holders in Boston offices have expressed their intention of returning to their favorite companies when they shall have obtained new charters, and are able to take new risks. The loss among the mutual offices in this city will fall heavily upon a class that can ill afford to meet their premium notes. A careful estimate shows that between seventy and eighty per cent. of the total amount of insurance effected in the burnt district will be at once paid.

UNPROTECTED PROPERTY.

On Monday morning there were $308,000,000 worth of property left uninsured by the bankruptcy of the companies which protected it on Saturday, and some of the parties interested are carrying their own risks until new companies can be formed and chartered.

OPENING THE SAFES.

A large number of the safes opened today contained nothing but ashes. This was the case with safes of various makers. The safe of Palmer, Batchelder & Co., extensive jewelers, on Washington-street, which, when the fire was approaching the store, was filled with watches and much valuable jewelry, there being no time to take them to a place of safety, was found to contain, when opened, melted gold, and the safe of a safe-manufacturing company also contained, when opened, nothing but cinders. The contents of the brick vaults have, as a general thing, been found to be all right. Some considerable loss has been occasioned by the opening of the safes too soon.

TEMPORARY OCCUPANCY OF FORT HILL.

The lands on the Fort Hill territory asked for by the shoe and leather dealers burned out, for temporary buildings, have been granted by the city authorities. The structures must be fire-proof, and not over twenty feet high. Occupancy is given from the 1st of December to the 1st of June next, the lessees to pay six per cent. per annum on the assessed value of the land. The lots will probably be staked to-morrow by the city surveyor, and the work of rebuilding begin at once.

RECOVERED FROM THIEVES.

That thieves from some quarter operated diligently during the fire is shown conclusively by the fact that between $300,000 and $400,000 worth of stolen property has been recovered by the police officers since Saturday night. A quantity of unclaimed goods is now in the City Hall and at the Truant office, Court-square.

THE TEMPORARY POST-OFFICE.

The work of remodeling the venerable and sacred old South Church for a temporary Post-office, to be used until the new Post-office is ready for occupancy, will be immediately begun. It will be entirely overhauled, and its familiar look will forever disappear. It is now the intention of the pew-owners to dispose of it, so soon as the Postal Department gets through with it, for business purposes. So another old Boston landmark is doomed. Probably before long the old State-house will be removed, and ten years hence no one will be able to find, except in the guide books or city histories, any reminder of the Boston of the early days. The new Post-office cannot be occupied for a long season, for a large portion of it must be rebuilt. The terrible heat of the flames which raged around it on every side has cracked and crumbled the granite of the vast pavilions of the Milk and Water street façades. It is said that arrangements will doubtless be made for extending the edifice to Congress-street, thus covering the entire square. In this event it is proposed to make Congress-street a grand avenue seventy-five or a hundred feet wide, extending from State-street to one of the new bridges across Fort Point Channel. A broad belt across the city would thus be given, where a successful stand could be made against a fire. Should this broad "Phœnix-avenue" be constructed, and the Post-office building be extended, the principal front would be on that side and the United States Courts probably located in the extension. Should this be done, and the proposed Central Exchange and the new County Court-house be located on the same avenue, there would be a noble group of fire-proof buildings, which would be as effectual a protection to the neighborhood as was the new Post-office to the buildings around it.

THE RELIEF MOVEMENT.

The Relief Bureau, in the Chardon-street City Building, finds more business than it expected. About 500 people are now receiving aid. Nearly every case is one of utter destitution, but all that the greater part of the sufferers ask is time. They are mostly of the sturdy working class, and so soon as they get a lift can abundantly take care of themselves. The applications are for food, clothing, or furniture, and these are promptly granted. The members of the Bureau estimate that at least 4,000 people have been deprived of homes, and that the greater portion of these, with many others, will be forced to apply to them for aid during a large part of the approaching Winter. The total number of killed in the fire is now given as only nine, five of whom are unknown. But this is probably an under-estimate, for there are a number of missing men and children, who, it is generally believed, perished in the fire, or are buried under the ruins. The number of seriously and slightly injured is stated to be not over a dozen or fifteen. One of the seriously injured firemen, Albert C. Abbott, of Charlestown, was to have been married on Thanksgiving Day; his brother, Louis Porter Abbott, is missing, and is supposed to be buried in the ruins on Washington-street. He leaves three little children in the care of his aged and widowed mother.

HOW THE FIRE ORIGINATED.

The cause of the fire is now thus stated: The five-story granite building, No. 87 Summer-street, where the fire broke out, was occupied in the three upper stories by A. K. Young & Co., extensive manufacturers of hoop-skirts and ladies' under-clothing, giving employment to 200 girls and a number of men. In the building was an elevator, and in the basement was a steam engine used for heating the premises and hoisting goods. On Saturday afternoon, it is said, as is usually the case, the engineer raked out the coals of fire, as it was not necessary to keep the fire over Sunday. The coals of fire probably ignited the wood-work near the engine and elevator, and the flames were carried through the elevator, leaping into every room of the upper stories, and especially among the combustible stock of goods of the hoop-skirt factory.

AID FROM ABROAD TO BE ACCEPTED.

The Citizen's Relief Committee, at their meeting today, rejected a resolution, offered by Mr. Gray, the President, declaring that while the City of Boston is profoundly grateful to the people of all parts of the country who have extended their sympathy, and tendered their assistance to it in its calamity, it is able to recover from its great loss without assistance from abroad. Mr. Gray, in moving the resolution, said, that when the telegram of the Mayor was sent to the Mayors of other cities on Monday, informing them that pecuniary assistance would be gratefully received, the extent of the calamity was not known, and the ability of the city to meet it was not comprehended. The objection to the passage of the resolution was mainly made by Nathan Matthews, Mayor Gaston, Josiah Quincy, and others, who contended that the merchants of the city cannot afford to relieve the sufferers, and consequently relief must come from abroad. A substitute resolution announcing that pecuniary aid would be gratefully received, was almost unanimously passed, and an Executive Committee was appointed to take charge of the funds received. Committees from Philadelphia, Chicago, and other Western cities were present. The Chicago Committee insisted that its hundred thousand dollars should be accepted, whether the resolution rejecting aid was passed or not.

List of the Killed and Wounded—Blowing Down the Walls—Insurance Companies—Old South Church for a Post-Office.

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—It is now possible to make a list, nearly complete, of the loss of life and limb by the terrible conflagration. The following are the names:

Lewis C. Thompson, of Worcester, struck by a falling wall, and killed.

Frank Olmstead, of steamer No. 1, of Cambridge, fatally injured.

William Forty and Daniel Cochrane, of steamer No. 4, buried under Weeks & Potter's store.

Five unknown persons, also buried under Weeks & Potter's store.

Thomas Maloney, of Worcester, ankle fractured.

Col. Freeman, head and legs injured by his horse falling.

William F. Woodora, hoseman of No. 18, run over by steamer No. 16, and his ribs and shoulder fractured.

G. W. Gardner, of Hose No. 5, eyes burned.

Francis Crosher, burned about the face and arms.

Charles Paine and Thomas Waldron, of Charlestown, injured by falling walls.

John Richardson, of New-Haven, a fireman, injured during the fire in Central Court.

Peter Deigham, rigger, foot badly injured.

Joseph Burr and George Smith, the former of Dorchester and the latter of Neponsett, came in on Saturday evening to see the fire; were last seen in the vicinity of Chauncy-street, and, it is feared, they have been killed by falling walls.

Walter F. Twombly, of Sheridan Hose Company No. 2, of Malden, has been missing since 3 o'clock Sunday morning. He was last seen on State-street, going toward Pearl-street. He was twenty-two years of age.

John Dillon, a machinist, aged eighteen, living at No. 122 Broadway, has been missing since 3 o'clock on Sunday.

Albert C. Abbott, an exempt fireman, of Charlestown, lies in a very critical condition at the Massachusetts General Hospital from injuries received while at work at the site of the old Post-office, on Sunday afternoon.

Louis Porter Abbott, brother of Albert C., is missing, and is supposed to be buried in the ruins of Bradford & Anthony's store, on Washington-street. He leaves three little children to the care of his aged and widowed mother at No. 11 Perkins-street, Charlestown. Albert was to have been married to a young lady of Charlestown on Thanksgiving Day, all the arrangements having been completed. His fiancée has been in attendance on him constantly since Sunday evening. The mother of the Abbotts had a presentiment on Sunday that something was to happen to one of her boys, and her fears were fearfully realized. She is attacked with brain fever, and lies in a critical condition at her house. But little hope is entertained of her recovery. Mr. Abbott was one of four brothers who were in the army. He enlisted in the Warren Phalanx, Company B, Thirty-sixth Massachusetts Regiment, and served with great bravery during the war, and was wounded twice. He was a machinest by occupation, at the machine-shop of the Boston and Maine Railroad Company. He leaves a wife and two or three children. His age was about twenty-eight.

THE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

There is but little additional news as to insurance. The Amazon and Triumph Companies, of Cincinnati, have stopped writing policies in New-England. The Bangor (Me.) National Company is reported as having suspended. The Massachusetts Mutual Company now states its losses at $1,300,000, with cash and securities on hand to the amount of $575,000.

Military Guard Reduced—$150,000 Recovered from the Ruins—The Newspapers—The Offered Relief.

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—A large part of the military guard over the ruins was withdrawn to-night.

REMOVING THE RUINS.

The experiment of blowing up the walls of W. H. Gleson's granite building, in the square formed by the junction of Summer and High streets, proved perfectly successful today. The first charge of five pounds was effective in blowing out the northerly wall only, but the second charge of twelve pounds (one pound to a cartridge) lifted the massive walls from their foundations, and they dropped perpendicularly into the cellar and upon the sidewalk, scarcely a stone diverging from a direct downward course so far as to fall into the street.

A SAFE WITH $150,000 IN IT INTACT.

The safe of Westcott & Co., on High-street, was recovered today, and its contents of $150,000 found uninjured, after sixty-two hours' exposure to the intense heat. The locality had been guarded by a detachment of dragoons.

THE NEWSPAPERS.

One daily, fifteen weekly and eleven monthly papers were turned out of their quarters by the fire, while almost every publishing establishment in the city suffered more or less.

AID TO BE ACCEPTED.

The following resolution was passed at the meeting of the Citizens' Relief Committee this morning:

Resolved, That the Committee on behalf of the citizens of Boston return most sincere and hearty thanks to their fellow-citizens, in all parts of the Union, for the warm expressions of sympathy which have been tendered at this time of calamity, and for the friendly offers of pecuniary aid which they have made, and that their friendly offers be, and they are hereby accepted.

(Signed,) WM. GRAY, Chairman.

The resolution to accept contributions from other cities will afford immediate relief to many poor families who lost their all, and to thousands of persons thrown out of employment. The noble generosity exhibited all over the country is calling forth thanksgiving from thousands of grateful hearts.

Spirited Action of a Maine Insurance Company.

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 14.—A meeting of the stockholders of the Eastern Insurance Company was held this afternoon, and a sufficient amount was promptly subscribed to make good their losses by the Boston fire. The losses amount to $180,000, less salvage. The assets of the Company are now $55,000. The directors and stockholders are among our best citizens. The Company has been amply able to meet all losses, and the only question with them has been one of the expediency of continuing their business. This they have now decided to do, and have put themselves in a condition to go on safely and prosperously.

Action of the Citizens of Washington.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—In accordance with a recommendation of Gov. Cooke, a public meeting was held this evening to take action for the relief of the sufferers by the Boston fire. E. L. Stanton, son of the late ex-Secretary Stanton, after a brief speech called the meeting to order, when ex-Mayor Berrit was selected to preside, and Joseph H. Adams, of Massachusetts, appointed Secretary. The following resolutions were adopted:

That the citizens of the District of Columbia deeply sympathize with the people of Boston on the calamity that has fallen upon that city.

That a committee of seven be appointed by the Chairman, to be known as the Boston Relief Committee, whose duty it shall be to solicit and collect contributions from the citizens of this District, and transmit the same to the authorities of Boston, in alleviation of the sufferings brought on by the recent disaster.

Sympathy and Relief for Boston Coming from England—Subscription Lists Opened.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—At a meeting, yesterday, in the town of Boston, Lincolnshire, it was resolved to aid the sufferers by the great fire in its American namesake, and subscriptions for that object are now being secured. Measures for the relief of the sufferers are also being taken in London. It was at first suggested that all subscriptions should be placed in the hands of Mr. Moran, the American Chargé de Affaires, to be sent to Boston, but the merchants have expressed a desire to remit direct to that city the amounts they subscribe. Baring Brothers, Drexel, Morgan & Co., and several other firms have already instructed their American agents to contribute to the relief of the sufferers.

The Common Council of London have voted a resolution of regret for the conflagration in Boston, and sympathy for the inhabitants of the city, and for the whole American people under what can be no less than a national calamity.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Pennsylvania Politicians After the Philadelphia Post-Office.

The Resignation of Solicitor-General Bristow—A Bogus New-Mexican Diamond—Two Fashionable Weddings—Ventilation of the Senate Chamber.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The vacancy in the Postmastership of Philadelphia has aroused the politicians of Pennsylvania in a most thorough manner, and to-morrow the President will have a foretaste of the joys of re-election. There arrived this evening from Pennsylvania a small army of her sharpest and ablest politicians, headed by Simon Cameron, who propose to know to-morrow what "the President is going to do about it." In the party were Gen. Hartranft, the Governor-elect; Mayor Stokely, of Philadelphia; Col. William B. Mann, Congressmen O'Neill and Harmer, and a number of members of the Legislature. Senator Cameron joined them at Baltimore. The Philadelphia party came on in a special car, dispensing a generous hospitality and giving every indication that they intend to stay until their work is done. Gen. Bingham tendered his resignation yesterday, and will assume the duties of his new office on Dec. 2. The party who arrived to-night favor the appointment of George Truman, Esq., a merchant, of the firm of Seiter, Price & Co., provided the competitive civil service rules are not applied; but if they are, they will urge George Fairman, present Cashier and Assistant Chief Clerk of the Philadelphia Post-office. There is no lack of candidates, and the selection is likely to be a good one, whether these gentlemen are successful or not.

VACANCIES IN THE PENNSYLVANIA DELEGATION.

Judge Mercur, Supreme Court Judge elect, of Pennsylvania, will resign the first week in December, in order to take his seat upon the bench at that time. It is probable a special election will be ordered to fill the vacancy. It is also probable that a vacancy will be found to exist in the Second District of Pennsylvania, (Philadelphia City,) now represented by John N. Creeley, who will, probably, not return to Congress, owing to complications growing out of charges of misappropriation of funds placed in his hands for investment.

SOLICITOR-GENERAL BRISTOW.

Gen. B. H. Bristow returned to the city this evening, and will to-morrow submit his resignation of the office of Solicitor-General, which he has thus far withheld at the solicitation of the President. Gen. Bristow has held this position since the office was created, and filled it to the great satisfaction of his superiors and to his own eminent credit. His departure is deeply regretted, for both as a lawyer and as a safe counsellor, in political and executive, as well as in legal matters, his ability and judgment were highly valued. His resignation is only another striking illustration of the chief defect of our civil service system, viz., inadequate compensation. Men of the ability of Gen. Bristow are sadly needed in many departments of the Government, but there is no inducement for them to enter its service, because the opportunities outside are far superior. Gen. Bristow's new position is counsel to the Texas and Pacific Railroad Company, and President of the Board of Construction.

THE NEW-MEXICO DIAMOND FRAUD.

The General Land Office has received a specimen of the New-Mexico diamonds, about which there has been some excitement recently. The specimen at the Land Office is nothing but quartz and entirely worthless.

SOCIETY GOSSIP.

Two fashionable weddings took place in Washington today. The first was at the New-York-avenue Presbyterian Church, Rev. S. S. Mitchell officiating. The parties were Mr. Andrew C. Bradley, son of the cashier of the National Bank of the Republic, and Miss Sue H. Young, daughter of the late Col. W. P. Young, and sister of Mrs. Alex. R. Shepherd, of this city. There was a very fashionable attendance at the church, as well as at the residence of Mrs. Shepherd, where a reception was afterward given in honor of the bride and groom. The second wedding was that of Lieut. O. J. Augur, son of Gen. C. C. Augur, and Miss Kate J. Dodge, daughter of Col. R. P. Dodge, formerly Pay-master of the United States Army. The ceremony took place in St. John's Church, Georgetown, Rev. Dr. Atkins officiating. It was likewise very fashionable in all its appointments.

IMPROVEMENTS IN THE CAPITOL.

The Capitol is nearly ready for the reassembling of Congress, the annual refitting and repairing being nearly accomplished. Scarcely any new furniture or carpets have been bought, and, though much needed in some of the rooms, the appropriations are not large enough to permit the necessary expenditure. One of the most important pieces of work done during the recess is the improvement of the ventilation in the Senate chamber. This is entirely mechanical, and the plan by which it is accomplished was devised by the Engineer, Mr. H. F. Hayden. The extensive changes from the old plan were begun some three years ago, and each Summer since, the faults observed during the sitting of Congress previously have been, as far as possible, corrected. The temperature of the floor was easily and perfectly regulated, and the air constantly changed last session, both in cold and hot weather; but the galleries, owing to the original faulty construction of the flues, were always much warmer than the floor, and especially when crowded with visitors. During the Summer, Mr. Hayden has had the gallery flues so changed and reconstructed that he can send hot or cold air directly to the galleries, and has diverted into new chambers the noxious air of the cloak-rooms and lobbies, which has hitherto found its way easily to the upper portion of the chamber. It is likely that the ventilation will need no more improvement, and if the changes that have been made answer expectations, the Senate chamber will be the best ventilated hall in the country. Any desired temperature can be maintained evenly in all parts of the room, while the air is constantly and rapidly changing without perceptible currents.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

THE ROCHESTER AND GREEN VALLEY RAILROAD CASE.

The Supreme Court of the United States today heard the case of Miller and others against the people of the State of New-York and others, from the Court of Appeals of New-York, involving the question whether the Legislature of 1867 had the power to increase the number of directors to be appointed by the City of Rochester in the Board of Directors of the Rochester and Genesee Valley Railroad Company, the original act having limited the number to four. The amended act authorizes the appointment of seven by the city, giving it a majority of the Board, and it is contended here that as this is in derogation of the rights of the stockholders under the original act, it impairs the obligation of the contract, and is void by the provisions of the Constitution of the United States.

VOLUNTEER CABINET-MAKERS' SPECULATIONS.

The complainants were also permitted to amend their bill by putting the Stanhope Company in that part of the bill where process is asked, it having been omitted in printing. It was generally agreed that there should be no further delay.

Grant's Majority in Vermont.

A note from the office of Hon. George Nichols, Secretary of State of Vermont, gives the official vote of that State for President as follows:

For Ulysses S. Grant	41,487
For Horace Greeley	10,947
For Charles O'Conor	593
Majority for Grant over both	29,947

Unofficial accounts of the vote for Members of Congress give the following results:

First District.—In all but two towns, Willard, Republican, has 14,051; Heaton, Democrat, 3,604; scattering, 5. Willard's majority, 10,442. The remaining two towns will increase the majority about 400.

Second District.—Poland, Republican, 11,140; Steele, Republican, 2,922; Pierce, Democrat, 2,483; scattering, 557. Poland's majority over all, 5,178. The town of Orange is to be heard from.

Third District.—Hendee, Republican, 11,677; Adams, Democrat, 3,186; scattering, 55. Hendee's majority, 8,436. Two towns to be heard from.

134,500 Majority for Grant in Pennsylvania.

From the Philadelphia Bulletin, Nov. 12.

The official returns from the interior counties of this State nearly all show greater gains for the Republicans than were indicated in the first reports received the day after election. After going carefully over the corrected returns we find the majority for Grant to be about 134,500. No State has ever before given so huge a majority for any candidate. It astonishes the most sanguine Republicans, who never calculated on more than 100,000. But if all the Republicans had voted it would have been still larger, for the vote for Grant is in many counties smaller than that for the State ticket in October. The Democrats, however, had given up the contest, and this caused some indifference among Republicans about 9,000 of whom stayed away from the polls. We estimate the full vote of the State at the Presidential election to have been about 554,500, Grant receiving about 344,500, and Greeley about 210,000. The following comparative statement of the Governor's and President's votes shows about the number of stay-at-homes in each party:

1872.	Republican.	Democratic.	Total.
October	351,387	319,760	671,147
November	344,500	210,000	554,500
Decline	8,887	107,760	116,647

A GALE IN THE GERMAN OCEAN.

The Coasts Inundated, and Destruction to Life and Property—Wrecks on the British Coast.

HAMBURG, Nov. 14.—A severe rain and snow storm, accompanied by a heavy gale, has prevailed in this section of Germany for several days. The telegraph wires have been prostrated in all directions; the country is flooded, and at Lubeck the Custom-house and many warehouses are submerged.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The gale of last night was exceedingly severe on the Prussian Coast. At Stralsund its effects were most disastrous; twelve vessels were sunk in the harbor; the town was inundated, and in the height of the storm a fire broke out along the warehouses, which spread rapidly, and is still burning. Several lives are reported lost, and many persons were injured.

The heavy gales which prevailed on the British Coast yesterday were very destructive to life and shipping. Reports of the wreck of many vessels, including the barks Jorge and Hiawatha, have already been received. Fifty lives are known to have been lost, and it is feared this number will be increased by reports of additional disasters.

STRALSUND, Nov. 14—Evening.—The storm has abated and the water is subsiding. The fire, after destroying several large buildings, has been extinguished.

The inundation extended along the entire coast. Details of the storm and disasters have not yet come to hand; but the damage done on sea and ashore must be immense.

A RIVER STEAMER SUNK.

The St. Mary's, from Memphis for Cincinnati, Stove in by a Stump—Escape of the Passengers.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 14.—The Chronicle says the steamer St. Mary's, which left Memphis for Cincinnati last night, with 236 bales of cotton and ten passengers, struck a stump near Morris Landing, at 9½ o'clock at night, tearing a hole between her wheel and stern, causing her to sink in less than ten minutes in eighteen feet of water. When she struck she was headed for the bar opposite and ran upon it, but her bow swung around, and she floated off and down the river nearly a mile to Brandywine Bar, upon which she now lies. As far as known there were no lives lost, her passengers having beed carried safely to the bar, and thence ashore in a life-boat, but one of the fireman is missing. The steamer City of Chester passed soon after she settled, and carried the passengers to Cairo. The St. Mary's was valued at $36,000, and was insured in Cincinnati offices for $16,000. The vessel can probably be raised.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 14.—The cargo of the steamer St. Marys consisted of 325 bales of cotton, 350 bales of rags, fifty tons of iron, and sundries. Two hundred and eighty-seven bales of the cotton were fully insured. The passengers spent the night on the bar, with a gale blowing and the thermometer at thirty degrees.

NEW-YORK CITY NEWS.

COUNTY CANVASSERS.

Work Commenced—The Law Governing the Action of the Board—A Disappointed Candidate for Controller.

After much delay yesterday the Board of Canvassers reassembled. The inspectors and poll-clerks who were present signed the returns according to law, which they failed to do on election night.

After a recess Supervisor Cochrane read the following communication:

> The instructions of the law as to the manner of sealing and signing and delivery of the envelopes containing the certificates of election are mainly directory, and when sealed and signed by any considerable number of inspectors and poll clerks, and delivered to the County Clerk and Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, although some of the signatures, as directed, be wanting, where there is evidence, aliendu and otherwise, to believe that the envelope is what it purports to be; the Board of County Canvassers will be in the performance of their duty by ordering the same to be opened in their presence and proceeding with the canvass. The danger to be apprehended from the possible registration of legal votes by refusing to open the envelopes seems to me to warrant this construction.
>
> Signed, RICHARD O'GORMAN,
> Counsel to the Corporation.
>
> Nov. 14. 1872.

Gen. Cochrane said he supposed this was the true interpretation of the law, and moved that the Board proceed to canvass the returns from all districts where there had been a moderate compliance with the law; which was carried.

Supervisor Vance moved that the County Clerk be authorized to bring in and open the returns filed with him as the canvass proceeded. Carried.

It was then moved that they proceed with the canvass of the First Assembly District.

Supervisor Fitzgerald objected that he was not ready, and asked that they proceed with some other district.

Supervisor Vance objected to any further delay, and insisted very strongly that if Mr. Fitzgerald had any reasons for not proceeding forthwith, that he state them so that the Board could judge their value.

Supervisor Fitzgerald said that he had received information from the watchers in two districts, which made him desirous of procuring further information before proceeding with the canvass.

The Committee appointed to procure the signatures of the Inspectors to the envelopes were directed to notify all Inspectors and poll-clerks from the Fourth to the Twelfth Assembly District, inclusive, who had not already properly signed and sealed the envelopes, to appear immediately and complete their signatures.

Another recess was then taken.

Upon reassembling, Supervisors Falconer and Joyce were appointed a committee to help a like Committee, heretofore appointed, to return envelopes.

A communication was received from John Gillin setting forth that at the late election he was a candidate for the office of Controller of the City and County of New-York, in place of Andrew H. Green, Esq., appointed in place of Richard B. Connolly, whose term of office expires, according to law, Dec. 31, 1872; that the inspectors of election of the Eleventh Election District of the Seventeenth Assembly District refused to receive votes for the office of Controller, and the deponent prays that the inspectors of election of said district be compelled to show cause why they refused to count ballots for Controller. A protest was received from John C. Rapp protesting against a certificate of election being given to Timothy J. Campbell as member of Assembly elect from the Sixth District, on account of gross frauds perpetrated to insure Campbell's election.

At 9 o'clock in the evening, the Board took a recess until 11 o'clock this morning, but the committees who have in charge the corrections on the envelopes containing the returns will meet an hour earlier, at which time the inspectors and poll clerks, who have been notified, are expected to attend.

INSURANCE LOSSES.

Condition of the Companies Who Have Suffered by the Boston Fire—Suggestions for the Future.

The excitement among the insurance companies of the City has somewhat diminished. The officers of the State Insurance Department have signified their intention of aiding all companies to the fullest possible extent, but the general opinion among insurance men is that the Metropolitan companies (the three suspensions already reported excepted) will go through the settling ordeal without any serious embarrassment. The three suspensions are the Humboldt and International, which have appointed receivers, and the Market Company which is practically in the same condition; the stockholders of the latter have been assessed seventy-five per cent., but it is not probable that the assessment will be paid.

Now that the companies feel themselves safe against immediate failure, the question of a more permanent security by an advance in rates and fixed premiums is being freely discussed. Among a class of insurance men there is a disposition to go to the extreme of absolutely refusing risks on wooden-roofed buildings, but the majority are in favor of insuring such premises at premiums amounting almost to prohibition, in which case the Mansard would soon become a structure of the past. The subject will be fully considered at the meeting of the National Board on the 21st inst. It is believed that the result of this meeting will be an advance of rates on all fire insurance.

The losses by the Boston fire seem to have affected the companies of all States, notably New-York, Massachusetts, and Connecticut, while the foreign companies lose over three millions. The following is a general summary of the losses of the various States:

Maine	$400,000
Massachusetts	29,190,000
Rhode Island	920,000
Connecticut	2,922,800
New-York	7,159,500
New-Jersey	17,500
Pennsylvania	2,307,500
Ohio	205,000
Illinois	30,000
California	75,000
Wisconsin	50,000
Minnesota	50,000
Missouri	15,000
Foreign Companies	3,280,000
Total	$46,602,300

Of this amount Metropolitan companies come in for about $6,800,000.

SUSPENDED COMPANIES.

Twenty-two Massachusetts companies have suspended; twenty being located at Boston, and two at Worcester. The former are: The Boston, Boylston, City, Elliott, Faneuil Hall, Exchange, Firemen's, Franklin, Howard, Lawrence, Manufacturers', Merchant's, Mutual Benefit, National, North American, Prescott, Shoe and Leather Dealers', Suffolk, Tremont, and Washington. The Worcester companies are the Bay State, and People's. These twenty-two will pay an average of about fifty-five per cent. on their liabilities. The Prescott and others have obtained new capital, and will start again. In Rhode Island the Equitable and Merchant's have suspended, and will pay about sixty-five per cent.

INSURANCE NOTES.

The Mechanics' Company will lose only $5,000 by the fire.

The Columbia has at risk in the burnt district $104,000, of which $30,000 will be saved.

The Republic has levied an assessment of fifty per cent. on the stockholders.

The Home Company loses $800,000, and have not yet decided on any assessment.

The Corn Exchange Company will levy an assessment on its stockholders, and continue business.

The Controller and Commissioner of Public Works.

A motion was on the Chambers calendar of the Supreme Court, and expected to have been reached yesterday, to punish Controller Green for contempt in having failed to deposit certain moneys called for by the Commissioner of Public Works, in the Chemical Bank, in pursuance of a mandamus issued by Judge Leonard. But although the case was not reached, respective counsel, Mr. H. H. Anderson for Commissioner Van Nort, and Mr. John H. Strahan for Controller Green, appeared before Judge Fancher, the former asking that a counter motion for a mandamus to compel Commissioner Van Nort to send a certificate of claims against his Department to the Controller, the papers in which had only been served on him at noon, be adjourned to a future day; the latter to ask that the motion to punish Controller Green for contempt stand over until this morning, and that both motions be then argued.

Mr. Anderson said he would require time to read over the papers and prepare for argument in the counter motion, but with the original motion to punish the Controller for contempt he was prepared to proceed. He desired to have it determined if a mandamus from the Supreme Court was of no avail, and might be thrown aside as so much waste paper by the Controller.

Mr. Strahan charged that it had been intimated to him that some trouble might ensue from the workmen to whom money was due remaining unpaid, and he thought the fault of delay lay with the Commissioner of Public Works. The decision of Judge Leonard had been rendered without reference to a statute which governed the whole matter, and now he was ready to proceed and have the whole question fairly determined.

Mr. Anderson retorted that to the Controller was properly attributable the delay; that had he obeyed the mandamus of the Court, no delay would have occurred.

Judge Fancher thought that inasmuch as the original motion had been heard before Judge Leonard, the further argument on the same question should also be heard by him.

Mr. Strahan said the case was on the calendar of this Court, and he had reasons for preferring that it should be heard there.

It was finally decided that the motion to punish Mr. Green for contempt be heard today, and that the question as to when the counter motion for a mandamus against Commissioner Van Nort remain undetermined until then.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The New Board of Examiners and Their Duties—Trial of the Self-Propelling Steam-Engine.

The Board of Examiners for the Fire Department, created on Wednesday, consists of Chief Engineer Perley, Assistant to Chief Bates, Assistant Engineer Nash, and Assistant Engineer Shay. In addition, one Fire Commissioner will serve on the Board, the different Commissioners taking turns in performing this duty.

All applicants for positions in the Department will be subjected to a rigid examination of their qualifications, and this system will be carried out in the matter of promotions. All company officers now in the Department will be required to pass the same ordeal.

The examination will be held in part at the companies' quarters. Company officers will be examined at Fire Head-quarters. The Board will begin its sessions today.

TRIAL OF THE SELF-PROPELLING STEAM FIRE-ENGINE.

A sensation was created on Broadway, yesterday, by the appearance of a self-propelling steam engine, which was proceeding, at great speed, to the Equitable Life Assurance Building, which had been selected for a test of the engine's capacity. The thoroughfare was densely thronged with people interested in the spectacle. Hose were attached to a hydrant, and carried to the cupola of the Equitable's Mansard roof, and streams of water poured upward and horizontally to all points of the compass. The cupola from which the water was played is fully 130 feet from the ground, and the flag-staff which rises from it is about 100 feet high.

The experiments were conducted under the direction of the Committee on Apparatus of the Fire Department, Chief-Engineer Perley officiating. After this test, others were made in Broadway and Nassau-street from the ground level, streams of water being sent up higher than the highest houses in the neighborhood. The report of the tests, as furnished by the Chief Engineer, is as follows:

Test No. 1.—A stream of water played through ten lengths of hose, (500 feet,) and a 1¼-inch nozzle, and elevated 130 feet, reached seventy feet in height. Through a 1¼-inch nozzle the stream reached sixty feet, it being of course a greater volume of water. To accomplish this test there was a water pressure of 190 pounds to the square inch, and 110 pounds was the highest steam pressure reached.

Test No. 2.—A stream of water forced through 400 feet of hose from the level of the engine, and played through a 1¼-inch nozzle, reached about 100 feet. This was accomplished with a water pressure of 135 pounds and a steam pressure of 100 pounds to the square inch.

Test No. 3.—A stream of water forced through 100 feet of hose, 100 feet from the engine, and played through a 1¼-inch nozzle, reached an elevation of 130 feet. A water pressure of 110 pounds and a steam pressure of 98 pounds to the square inch was all that was obtained for this last trial.

The Committee do not consider that the steamer had a fair test in these experiments, owing to the insufficient water supply. The engine is a first-class apparatus, one of the largest belonging to the Department, and has a capacity of 200 pounds' pressure to the square inch. After the experiments were concluded, the engine was put under good headway, and guided easily through Nassau-street, to Liberty, to Broadway, and thence to the head-quarters.

BOATING NOTES.

A Proposition from Australia for an International Race, and its Conditions—Home News.

The Atalanta Boat Club has received a very kindly-worded invitation from the Balmain Regatta Committee, of Sydney, New South Wales, to participate in a regatta, in which it is expected that crews will enter from Victoria, New-Zealand, Tasmania, and Queensland. The race to be in four-oared gigs, for a set of Australian trophies, valued at £200. A fund has been raised by subscription, from which £500 is appropriated to pay at least a portion of the traveling expenses of the challenged Americans. The Committee also request that, in the event of non-acceptance, their proposition be made public, the same offer then to hold good for any other American amateur crew. The Committee is very strict in regard to the amateur question, their definition ending with the clause that none need apply who make, or ever have done so, a livelihood by manual labor.

The Sydney Rowing Club have also extended a very courteous invitation to the prospective visitors, placing their house, boats, &c., at their disposal.

A similar letter was received by the London Rowing Club, which acknowledges the receipt of same and promises a reply after the next meeting.

The Atalanta Club held a meeting on Tuesday last, and it was decided to decline the invitation. The Secretary was unable, however, to prepare his reply in time. It will follow in a few days.

The Committee and stewards of the Henley Regatta have, upon motion of Mr. H. H. Playford, adopted the American system of rowing fours without a coxswain.

HOME NOTES.

Mr. William A. Hamilton, who won the two-mile single-scull race, recently, at the regatta of the Saratoga Boat Club, was presented with a very fine gold badge as a memento of the event. His time was 17:53¾.

Ellis Ward is said to be very anxious for another race with John Biglin.

Dr. Withers and Mr. Eben Losee, who have thrice won the beautiful champion belt of the Atalanta Club, will have to row a race next season for its permanent possession, such being the stipulated condition.

Eddy Smith, the well-known bow-oar of the Atalanta's four, is also anxious to meet the renowned Dr. Withers in a three-mile race.

Regattas on a grand scale are promised for next season; among others, one gotten up by the committee appointed by the Amateur Congress held here last August.

The Harlem Navy also proposes a regatta on the Harlem River, on the Henley plan.

The Gramercy Boat Club are pushing the construction of their new house on the Harlem River as fast as possible. When completed it will, to judge from the plans and progress already made, be the finest floating boat-house in this country.

It is proposed to raise a fund for a monument to be erected over the remains of Walter Brown.

New-York Female Assistance Society.

The New-York Female Assistance Society held their fifty-ninth anniversary, yesterday, in the Reformed Dutch Church, corner of Fifth-avenue and Twenty-ninth-street. Rev. Dr. E. O. Haven read the annual report of the Society, and commended the ladies for the benevolence and energy of their labors. The Secretary's report testified as to the unwearying efforts of the ladies appointed as visitors to the various Wards, and the amount of good done to the sick poor of the City by the TIMES Summer excursions. The Treasurer's report showed the disbursements during the past year to be $10,274 50, the receipts $12,163 04, which, with the balance in hand of last year amounting to $4,171 47, makes a total of $16,334 51, leaving a balance on Oct. 1 of $6,064 01. The report of the Dorcas Society, an auxiliary of the Female Assistance Society, shows that, after a disbursement during the year of $2,364 97, the Society has still on hand a balance of $4,849 87.

The Society meet every Wednesday at 10 A. M., in the Reformed Dutch Church, Fifth-avenue and Twenty-ninth-street, and subscriptions of clothing or money are earnestly solicited.

The Stock Exchange.

The Governing Committee of the New-York Stock Exchange have admitted the following stocks to dealings: On the regular list—Western Pacific first mortgage bonds, Central Pacific State Aid bonds, Missouri Sixes Asylum bonds. On the free list—Sixth-avenue Railroad first mortgage bonds, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, and St. Louis first mortgage consolidated seven per cent. bonds, the Consolidation Coal Company of Maryland six per cent. consolidated convertible bonds. On miscellaneous list—Mariposa Land and Mining Company common and preferred stocks.

Nearly all the firms dealing in the New-York Stock Exchange, and whose failures, in consequence of the depreciation of stocks by the Boston conflagration, were announced recently, have settled in full, and their applications for readmission to the Exchange, through the appropriate Committee, will probably receive favorable consideration.

United States District Court.

In the matter of $2,000 worth of whiskey seized at the store of M. M. Decker, No. 168 Chambers-street, for alleged violation of the revenue, a verdict was rendered for the plaintiff.

A horse and wagon belonging to Charles Reibold, seized in July last, for carrying a quantity of smuggled silver was returned.

In the case of the New-Jersey Railroad and Transportation Company against the propeller John Taylor to recover damages for a collision which took place between the ferry-boat John S. Darcy and the propeller, on the 31st of October, 1867, at the foot of Desbrosses-street, North River, Judge Blatchford gave a decree for the libellant, with a reference to a commissioner to ascertain the amount of damage.

In the case of Gibbs vs. Bock, Bechtel, Schnider, and Schoen, an action to throw the defendants into voluntary bankruptcy, Judge Blatchford declared for the defendants.

The Niobrara League of Indians' Friends.

A number of ladies from the different parishes of the Protestant Episcopal Church in this City held a meeting, yesterday, in Room No. 21 Bible House, for the purpose of organizing an association to aid in the Church's work among the Indians. Rev. J. J. Enmegahbowh, formerly a Chief among the Chippewa Indians, and for the past two years an ordained minister of the Episcopal Church, was present, with his family. Rev. Dr. Twing presided. A letter was read from Gen. B. R. Cowan, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, setting forth the numerous advantages to be derived from sending moral and religious men as missionaries among the Indians. The meeting then resolved itself into the Niobrara League, and a committee of four was appointed to report proper candidates for offices. A constitution and by-laws will be prepared. The Niobrara League have for sale a number of water-color drawings of sacred subjects, and other articles contributed by school children.

TURF NOTES.

Preparations for the Southern Races—General Items About Blood Stock.

The anticipations of the trotting turfmen of witnessing the usual series of matches and sweepstakes, incident to the month of November in this vicinity, have been disappointed by the horse distemper, which attacked the high-bred trotter as well as the mongrel car-horse. It brought the trotting season to a sudden close, and drove the speculators to seek other fields to ply their vocation. To them the excitement of the election came opportunely, but those who affect a preference for running are turning their attention to the South. At Natchez, Miss., a jockey club has been organized, and the inaugural meeting is announced to take place on the 19th inst., and continue five days, after which the clans will gather on the splendid course of the Louisiana Jockey Club at New-Orleans, and take part in the games to be enacted before the horses are retired to their Winter quarters. The meetings will begin on the 30th of the present month, and continue Dec. 3, 5, and 7. Dr. Weldon, well known as the "fat philosopher" with his stable, is on his way to the Mecca. He has Mary Louise, Flora McIvor, and Warlike, a two-year old, by War Dance, dam by Captain Beard. Mr. Sanford will doubtless be present with representatives of the Preakness stable, and will Winter in New-Orleans to prepare Monarchist for the great four-mile race which is to take place at the Spring meeting of the Louisiana Jockey Club. This race is attracting the attention of people in every section of the country, and several owners of race-horses in California have signified their intention of entering against the boastful champions of the East and South. Bassett and Tuoman will probably represent the McDaniel stable in the race. Lyttleton is already on the ground, and Flora McIvor will doubtless be entered. It is expected that there will be at least a dozen starters for the rich prize.

John O'Donnell is offering Judge Curtis for sale, the Judge being unfit for turf purposes since his leg gave way. As he is well bred, he will make an excellent stallion for breeding purposes.

The son of Mr. Benj. Pryor, now training for Mr. Belmont, has been engaged by John F. Chamberlin for next season.

The Mercury, of San Jose, Cal., of a recent date, says that the advent of Goldsmith Maid and Lucy in the Golden State "is a moral calamity, the evils of which it will take years to counteract. It has turned the heads of the people, and they are fast becoming a community of horse-jockeys."

The subject of a running meeting is being pretty well canvassed among the members of the Prospect Park Fair Ground Association. It is proposed to have several races of heats, for which large purses will be offered, if the object now in embryo is consummated. The Fair Ground has a magnificent field, which can be made the finest steeple-chase course in the country, and if a running meeting is determined upon, the Association will do well to offer purses to the jumpers.

Meeting of the Board of Assistant Aldermen.

The Board of Assistant Aldermen met at 2½ P. M. yesterday. The Committee on Arts and Sciences presented a report expressing concurrence in the resolution of the Board of Aldermen providing a full-length portrait of the late Prof. Morse, to be placed among the paintings in the Governor's Room. The report was received and laid over.

The Committee on Public Works, to whom was referred a resolution of the Board introduced on the 11th inst., authorizing the Controller to purchase 300 copies of Gerard's City Water Rights, Streets, and Real Estate for the use of the Common Council and the various heads of departments, and appropriating therefor $1,500, reported that, after a careful examination, they (the Committee) consider that the purchase would be an unnecessary expense. Its further consideration was indefinitely postponed.

A communication was read from the Commissioner of Public Works, relating to the provision of apartments in the City Hall for the conduct of the business of the Department, the lease of the building now occupied by it being nearly run out. It was placed on file.

A paper from the Board of Aldermen on the same subject was then read. It contained a request for the appointment of a committee to confer and act with a committee of the Board of Aldermen in the consideration of the reassignment of rooms in the City Hall. The paper was received, and the Committee on Public Works constituted the Committee of Conference.

The question of concurring with the Board of Aldermen, in directing the Superintendent of Buildings to compel builders to use fire-proof material in the construction of Mansard roofs henceforth, was laid over. The opinion was expressed that the action of the Aldermen was hasty in condemning the erection of such roofs. The President said that the Aldermen might as well say that no more granite is to be used in the construction of buildings—for heat burst granite, and, no doubt, helped to spread the conflagration—as to ascribe the calamity of Boston wholly to Mansard roofs.

The Board then adjourned to Monday, at 2 P. M.

Department of Docks.

The Dock Commissioners met yesterday. The petition of Homer Ramsdell to erect a shed 180 feet long on Pier No. 35 North River was granted. On the report of the Executive Committee, the lessee of part of Pier No. 4 East River was ordered to make the necessary surface repairs by Dec. 1. Superintendent Westervelt's report of the work finished and in progress during the month of October was read and placed on file. It appeared from the report that the new pier at Fifteenth-street and North River had been finished; that the outer end of Pier No. 4 East River had been rebuilt, and the new pier at Twenty-fourth-street and North River was building. The petition of the New-York Floating Dry Dock Company, to have their lease of Pier No. 43 East River canceled, was denied. The Commissioners of Charities and Correction asked for permission to erect a pier in front of Bellevue Hospital for the better accommodation of small-pox patients. The Board granted their request. Mr. D. W. C. Ward, of No. 5 Water-street, wished to lease the pier at Twenty-third-street and East River at $3,000 a year. The matter was referred to the Executive Committee for report. The New-York and Oswego Midland Railroad Company petitioned for authority to erect a shed over Pier No. 23 North River, and a building adjoining the pier, on West-street, for the reception and shipping of freight. The proposed depot is in the immediate neighborhood of West Washington Market. The Executive Committee will visit the premises, and report relative to the petition at the next meeting. On motion of Commissioner Hunt, the necessary steps were directed to be taken to place the bulk-head between Piers Nos. 42 and 43 North River in possession of the City, preliminary to carrying out the improvement of the water front. The Board then adjourned.

Commissioner Van Nort and Controller Green.

In reference to the dispute between Controller Green and Commissioner Van Nort respecting the payment for work, sewers, and material upon the Boulevard, and other streets and avenues, Mr. Van Nort addressed a communication yesterday to the Controller, stating that to prevent any further delay he was prepared to furnish certificates of the amount of work done and materials furnished, if the Controller is prepared to pay for such work and services. Mr. Van Nort, in conclusion, says: "Had your objection to chapter 872 of the Laws of 1872 been limited to the manner of payment of moneys, there would have been no controversy between us; but your objection, as stated by your counsel, went to the validity of the entire work performed under my direction, because of the unconstitutionality of the act. The validity of the act having been determined, I am advised that the question of how payment shall be made for work done is a matter not essential to the validity of the works, and, therefore, the proposition which I have made."

The Methodist Bishops in Session—Debate on the Indian Question.

The General Missionary Committee of the Methodist Church held its annual meeting yesterday at the Mission Rooms in this City, for the purpose of making appropriations for the year 1873. Bishop Morris presided. The Committee is charged with apportioning the sums of money annually necessary for all missionary purposes. This year the basis of the appropriations is $800,000, and yesterday appropriations were made as follows: For India, $111,310; China, $63,136; Japan, $25,000; Africa, $19,000; South America, $12,200; Bulgaria, $6,250; for the missions to foreign-speaking populations in the United States, $60,250.

The question of making appropriations for the American Indians excited an animated debate. Dr. Eddy moved that $2,500 be allotted to support missions among the red men. Bishop Haven gave an entertaining account of his trip to the North-west, and said there was an opening for the planting of Methodist missions. He praised the policy of Gen. Grant, and said the Church ought to second the efforts of the Government in civilizing the aborigines. Much discussion followed, but the subject was not settled.

THURSDAY, Nov. 14—P. M.

The bidding for Treasury Gold today amounted, in the aggregate, to $2,695,000, of which the Secretary of the Treasury accepted bids to the amount of $1,000,000, (the regular weekly programme,) at 113.15@113.25 ₱ cent. The subsequent sales in the open market were at 113⅜@113½ ₱ cent. The Export of Gold today is $1,350,000, since when the rates for Exchange on London have receded to 108½@108¾ ₱ cent. for sixty days, and 110½@110⅝ ₱ cent. short sight. The demand for Exchange in excess of the Bills drawn against Cotton at the South, and against Domestic Produce and United States Stocks from New-York, is lighter than was calculated on early in the week, and it may be added that the shipments of Gold are lighter than the singular condition of affairs in the London Money Market would seem to demand.

The early London telegrams this morning had a more favorable look in respect to the British Funds and our own Public Funds and Erie Stock. But later the quotation for Consols came weaker, and the Money trouble in that market is evidently not yet over. Its influence here, however, is not so sensibly felt as on Monday and Tuesday.

The mercantile demand for Money increases in urgency, and the Banks, as a rule, are unable to accommodate regular dealers at 7 ₱ cent. per annum. On the Street, the rates on first-class paper are 10@12 ₱ cent, which are higher, singular to say, than in Boston, where four months' Bills were placed at 8 ₱ cent. The Stock Brokers paid a small bonus over 7 ₱ cent. on loans on Stock Collateral returnable to-morrow. The market is dear, but it is remarked that borrowers make up their accounts without difficulty at the going terms.

The Stock Speculation was less confident than yesterday and the day before, because of continued dear Money. There was less doing than yesterday, and holders of Stocks are not inclined, as a rule, to yield to any material decline. There was more than ordinary interest today in Erie Stock, which, on the London telegrams, sold up to 51½ ₱ cent. With this exception, the New-York and Western Roads, and also Pacific Mail and Western Telegraph sold lower, and finally, at 4 o'clock, closed as followed as compared with the last figures of yesterday.

The Public Funds of the United States, on the Coupon 5-20s, and the Coupon 1881s, and New 5 ₱ cents, keep firm, as a remittance to England and the Continent, and other descriptions are steady. The Southern State Bonds are indifferently sustained, and most of the old Railway Mortgages are steady. The new undertakings sell their Bonds slowly.

The buyers of Stocks on speculation today were disposed to concede liberal differences on 30@60 days' contracts, equal to 15@20 ₱ cent. per annum for Money, believing, of course, that the market will be decidedly higher in December and January than at present.

Late in the day the Bull interest in the market moved with less confidence than yesterday, and whether this is to be ascribed to the extra cost of carrying over Stocks, or to the financial outlook abroad and among our own Merchants and Railroad builders, the last prices certainly reflect a weaker temper of speculation.

The return from the Bank of England for the week ended the 30th of October gives the following results when compared with the previous week:

Rest	£3,168,222	Increase	£7,398
Public deposits	6,722,377	Increase	627,714
Other deposits	18,868,155	Decrease	595,637
Government securities	13,256,546	No alteration.
Other securities	21,451,291	Decrease	419,951
Notes unemployed	8,346,870	Increase	401,740

The amount of notes in circulation is £25,954,865, being a decrease of £62,220; and the stock of bullion in both departments is £20,013,823., showing an increase of £404,772 when compared with the preceding return. Subjoined is a comparison of the present position of the Bank of England and the prices of Consols and French Rentes with the corresponding week of last year:

	At Present.	Last Year.
Bullion	£20,013,823	£22,512,363
Reserve	9,068,958	12,560,731
Notes in circulation	25,954,865	25,457,960
Rate of discount	8 ₱ cent.	5 ₱ cent.
Consols	92⅛	93

The mail advices from London are not yet very clear as to the causes of the dearness of Money. The prevailing explanation is that Germany is drawing Gold for recoinage at the Imperial Mint in Berlin, and that the new coins will not enter into general circulation until after the New Year. This report, however, fails to account satisfactorily for the advance in the Bank of England rate of Interest, with over twenty millions sterling in Gold ($100,000,000) in vault. There would seem to be a want of elasticity in the Peel Act of 1844, whereby the Bank of England Notes Circulation is made to perform the same office for the trade of Great Britian now as thirty years ago—the Export of British Produce having in the meantime increased from less than £70,000,000 per annum to £190,000,000. The Peel Act limits the Circulation (practically legal Tender) of the Bank to £15,000,000 of Public Stocks and the amount of Bullion in the Bank. Under this arrangement the Bank now reports as follows:

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

No. 228.—New-Bedford and New-York Steam Propeller Company vs. United States.—Appeal from the Court of Claims.—This was a demand for a balance due under a charter party with the United States, and for the loss of the steamer Thorn while in the employ of the United States. The vessel was valued by the charter party at $40,000, and it was agreed that if the vessel should remain in the service so long that the money paid on the charter, (after deducting actual cost of running and repair and a net profit of thirty-three per cent. on the apprised value,) should be equal in value to the estimated value of the vessel, then it should become the property of the Government without further payment, except such sum as was due on account of the service of the vessel. Eleven months after the Company put in a claim for the $40,000, besides the balance due on the charter party. The Department, however, disallowed the account rendered, and found to be due, under the agreement for the vessel, only $23,642 25, which sum was paid and receipted for by the Company. The Court below held that whether the Government elected to purchase, and did purchase the vessel, or whether the vessel was lost by the peril of the sea—against which the Government was to insure—the accruing clause of the charter party was equally applicable. It was only the balance due on the price of the vessel, under the agreement, and not the valuation, the Company could claim. The appeal claims that unless the earnings amounted in value to $40,000, there was no option to purchase, and the Government were not, therefore, entitled under the clause.

C. H. Hill for Government; Chipman, Durant & Peck for claimant.

The New Reservoir.

In consequence of the unfavorable weather yesterday Commissioner Van Nort postponed his proposed visit to the new reservoir in course of construction at Boyd's Corners, which, when completed, will have a capacity of 3,000,000,000 gallons. The Commissioner proposes to hurry the work so as to get the reservoir completed and filled during the coming Winter. Gross Assets, " " - $559,000
Boston Losses, maximum - 150,000
Assets for future liabilities - $409,000

From a sense of duty to ourselves, our stockholders, policy-holders, and the public generally, we take this opportunity to correct our first estimate of our Boston losses, made on the 10th inst., from reports received by us of the district covered by the fire, and state, as above, the maximum figure of our losses, after personal examination, made by an officer of the Company, who has just returned from Boston.

We can congratulate all interested in the Company that our system of building up a large surplus to meet an extensive conflagration, instead of dividing our profits to our stockholders, has demonstrated, both in the Chicago and Boston fires, the wisdom of our policy and the ability of the Company to withstand the devastations of the fire-fiend, whose visits have lately been so destructive.

We shall have $159,000 Surplus over our Capital of $250,000, with the net book value of our stock 115, after paying all losses, including Boston, in full, and it shall be our earnest effort, using all the prudence our experience suggests, to place our Company in a stronger position than ever.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Errors having been made in publishing losses of insurance companies by the fire in Boston, the President and Directors of this Company deem it expedient and proper to inform the public that the whole amount of risks this Company has in the burnt district in Boston is $104,000; that if this amount is a total loss, the Company will pay it promptly and still have a handsome surplus remaining over and above its capital. From such information as can be obtained, it is believed, however, that the Company's loss will not exceed $75,000.

The right of the Board of Supervisors of the County of New-York to sue for the recovery of the money fraudulently abstracted by TWEED and others from the County Treasury has been affirmed by the General Term of the Supreme Court. The decision does not necessarily invalidate the right of the people of the State to sue for the recovery of these moneys. The civil suits against the Ring plunderers were originally instituted in Albany County because of the highly unsatisfactory character of some of our local Judges and of our local prosecuting officer, the Corporation Counsel. The Supreme Court Bench of this district has been tolerably well purified, and Mr. O'GORMAN'S term of office closes with that of his friend Mayor HALL. The reasons for bringing these suits in the name of the people of the State will, therefore, cease to exist in a few weeks, and it is to be presumed that the direct course of pushing them in the local Courts will then be adopted.

An important circular from the Controller of the State will be found in our paper this morning. It is in substance an announcement that the three and a half millions inserted in this year's State tax for the payment of the deficiency existing in the Treasury will have to be collected. It had been proposed to fund the deficiency, in which case this portion of the year's tax would have been remitted. That proposition was submitted to the people at the last election, voted on, and probably carried. But it now appears that this vote was void, owing to a constitutional provision concerning the independent submission of propositions to increase the public debt of the State. The effect of this decision will be most felt in this City and Brooklyn, and, proportionately, most heavily in Brooklyn.

Another Democratic hope is disappointed by the unanimous nomination of Senator MORTON for re-election, by the Republican majority in the Indiana Legislature. To secure the defeat of the "great war Governor," who has always been true to his country, the Democrats were ready to use any means, however questionable, and at one time it was thought they might be able to obtain a few Republican votes for some other candidate, and thus defeat Mr. MORTON. The name of Vice-President COLFAX was used in this connection, but that faithful Republican promptly repudiated the scheme, and thus defeated the purposes of the conspirators. The thanks of the country are due him, for thus giving his powerful aid to secure the return of Senator MORTON to the position where he has done the nation such eminent service, and where his sterling patriotism and intellectual power must be of great value in the future.

Attention is being called throughout the country to the necessity of some modification of the pay-rolls of the civil service of the United States. There is a constantly-increasing public opinion that the people have become rich enough to give adequate wages to those who serve them, and that a wise economy requires that the emoluments of public station should be commensurate with its responsibilities and requirements. As has already been remarked in these columns, it was never intended that high public officials should exhaust private fortunes in maintaining the dignity of their positions, and it is plain that emoluments which were ample many years ago, when established, are totally inadequate to the needs of today.

Our Police being now relieved of the engrossing duty of endeavoring to save some of the remnants of Tammany from the general wreck, might be profitably employed in giving attention to their legitimate functions. Superintendent KELSO can hardly be ignorant that crime and vice are constantly becoming more obtrusive in Broadway, within a stone's throw of his office. It is time the Superintendent did something toward extirpating the concert-saloons and gambling haunts, and the people are not disposed to accept any such excuse as that there is no law by which he can proceed. It is true, the statutes are defective, but where there is a will, a way can be found, and Mr. KELSO will not be permitted to much longer ignore an evil that is offensively thrust upon the notice of every one who passes through our chief thoroughfare after nightfall.

In selecting Hon. SAMUEL M. PHILLIPS, of North Carolina, for the place of Solicitor-General, President GRANT has given the country one more proof that civil service reform with him is something more than a pretense. Mr. PHILLIPS is a gentleman of the highest character, a lawyer of great ability and acquirements, and in the position to which he has been called, will render the country valuable service, but will do the politicians very little good. His appointment is, therefore, a subject for public congratulation.

"Carpet-Baggers" and Their Future.

The antics which Gov. WARMOTH, of Louisiana, is just now practicing, may be regarded as one of the last convulsive kicks of carpet-bagging in the South. WARMOTH is a very interesting and lively representative of his class. He is young, full of energy and resource, courageous, of, popular address, a clever speaker, a fast liver, an unbridled speculator, and as unscrupulous a politician, in the meanest and lowest sense of the term, as any American State has ever been cursed with. Anything that abuse of power and betrayal of trust are equal to, WARMOTH may be counted on to accomplish, if his interest lies that way. The history of the fertile State which he literally rules, has, for the term of his Governorship, been a humiliating story of fraud and violence in the places where justice and the preservation of order should alone be regarded. His last bold attempt to alter the election returns, by recasting the Election Board, is intended to obtain some place in which he can be secure from the reverses that have elsewhere overtaken his kind, and which he can plainly see are in store in the immediate future for himself.

Whatever may be the date at which the overthrow of the corrupt and disgraceful domination of WARMOTH may take place in Louisiana, it is certain that recent public events have made the downfall of his class throughout the South only a question of time, and of no very extended time at that. Let no enthusiastic Democrat lay the flattering unction to his soul that such an event would cut short the career of Republicans and of immigrants from the North alone. Though the earliest, and some of the worst, corruptionists in the South were Republicans, that was owing to the peculiar constitution of the voting population, which made it impossible for Southern Democrats to make much headway, and gave the offices in the main to professed Republicans, most of whom, of white complexion, were Northern born. The bad habit of shooting Southern men avowing Republican principles had prevailed too long to allow of any different state of things. But the Republican corruptionists from the North found ready and skillful partners in the South, and in some of the blackest chapters of the recent humiliating history of the Southern States, the names of native Democrats occur with unpleasant frequency.

Democrat or Republican, however, it is a matter for sincere rejoicing that the end of their rule, where it has not already been reached, is approaching. The causes are various. The Amnesty act was, perhaps, the chief, as it was among the first. This restored to political activity in the South the great body of men who were acquainted intimately with public affairs, and who had the character and capacity to deal with them. The next blow to the rule of the corruptionists was the nomination of GREELEY at Baltimore. That divided them. Many of them, like WARMOTH, thought they saw a "revolution," and went over to the Fusion movement. It divided the Democrats, also, and brought some of the shrewdest and most capable of them into active co-operation with the better Republicans, and, what is most important, established political sympathy between them and the negroes. It can no longer be said that negroes are all on one side, and the Southern whites on the other.

Another beneficent effect of Mr. GREELEY'S nomination and defeat is, that it is now perfectly clear that whatever wild hopes the Southerners may have entertained of modifying the results of the war, by unfriendly legislation or unfriendly administration, must be abandoned. The influence of this fact will extend in the South to all, even to those who had been unconscious of entertaining any such hopes, but whose spirit has been one of ill-concealed discontent and even animosity toward the National Government. Probably one result will be that Southern men will not be very prominent in national politics during the next few years. Another result, equally probable, and flowing from the former, will be that Southern men will take all the more earnestly to their home affairs, as affording rewards for their legitimate ambition, and a field for active and efficient work. Certainly, the field is ample. The South needs efficient and economical State Governments and she can only get them from the hands of her own citizens. She needs a carefully-developed system of schools, adapted to her peculiar population; she requires cheap, simple, and effective Courts, especially for minor causes and for criminal procedure; she needs, and needs absolutely, a vigorous enforcement of the laws for the protection of person and property; and she needs a judicious, prudent, but patient and continual effort to improve her material resources in all legitimate ways. These are no easy tasks. To perform them well will bring labor enough to tax any generation of active public men; but it will bring solid satisfaction, and well-earned reputation also, to those who bear their part in it.

The Practical Test of Local Reform.

When the people of New-York elected a Mayor pledged to principles of non-partisan Reform, and emphasized their decision by electing a clear majority of Reformers in the Board of Aldermen, they placed beyond all doubt their conviction that local affairs ought to be managed with a single reference to honesty and capacity, and with a distinct exclusion of all issues belonging to national politics. To the Republican Party belongs the chief credit of removing Municipal administration beyond the influence of purely partisan control. From that party the people expect the completion in the Legislature of the work commenced on election day—the emancipation of local offices from the traffic and dictation of the political caucus. The Republicans owe part of their majority in the Legislature to their frank acceptance of the platform of local reform. Our Presidential ticket carried but four of the Assembly Districts, while we elected the Republican candidates in eight, and possibly in in nine districts of the City. The people of New-York have faith in the sincerity with which the Republican Party enters upon the work of non-partisan reform in municipal business. It remains for the majority of the Legislature to show that they fairly recognize the obligations which this trust imposes upon them, and that they are prepared to give the local officers elected by the people of the City a fair chance of conducting its affairs, subject only to the control of the public opinion which placed them where they are.

There are undoubtedly influences at work whose aim it will be to confuse the plain teachings of the election, and to force the City back into the old rut of partisan competition for party spoils. To the promoters of such efforts, the existence of the Committee of Seventy presents serious obstacles, and they are, therefore, trying to effect the dissolution of that organization. The experience of the last two elections has fully demonstrated how much wholesome influence can be exerted in local contests by a body of influential citizens, representing with tolerable fidelity the best sections of both political parties, but subject to the dictation of neither. Whatever opinion may be entertained about the policy of continuing indefinitely the existence of such an organization, there can be no question that its dissolution at the present juncture, would seriously damage the prospects of local reform. The Committee has made mistakes, and will probably make more before its career has ended. But its influence has, in the main, been as salutary, as it was impartially exerted, and it remains the single organization in the City whose indorsement will help to elect a man on his personal merits, apart altogether from the political creed with which he is identified. It has done much to force the political parties to nominate good men for local office. It cannot consider its work as accomplished until it has, at least, done its best to secure for the City legislation conceived in the same spirit as the principles which called it into being, and which have been the source of its continued influence. We trust, therefore, that at the meeting of Tuesday next, any proposition for the dissolution of the Committee of Seventy will be promptly voted down.

The citizens of New-York do not expect from the present Legislature any elaborate scheme of Municipal reconstruction. They have put honest men in charge of their affairs, and they wish these men to have a fair chance of showing what can be done under administrative machinery, amended without the preliminary of throwing everything into confusion again. A few simple checks and several radical reforms can be introduced into local administration, without consuming months over the discussion of comprehensive schemes of charter legislation. We cannot be perpetually calling upon the people of New-York to make a supreme effort to put their local government in good hands. They did that on Nov. 5, and they look to the Legislature for the means of sweeping away what remains of Tammany barnacles, and of preventing by some practical remedies a recurrence of the outrageous frauds of the last few years. For such we confidently appeal to the Republican majorities in the Assembly and Senate, backed by a Governor all whose sympathies are on the side of practical and immediate provision for the better government of the City of New-York.

Fire Inspection.

There is not, as far as we know, in a single city in the United States, anything like a thorough system of inspecting buildings with reference to danger from fire. Many cities make scarcely an attempt at any inspection at all, and even in those where most attention is given to the matter, all that is done falls very far short of what is needed.

Every man in a free country has, as a general rule, an indubitable right to build his house as he pleases. He can, for instance, make it as ugly as he likes; and, unless it is so hideous as to frighten horses or terrify small children, no one can interfere with him. We see, every day, in new edifices that are going up, striking cases of the full exercise of the right in this particular form. So, if an individual chooses to set the front of his house at an angle of forty-five degrees with the line of the street, or construct his entrance and hall so that visitors cannot get into the parlor without going through the kitchen, the public authorities would be decidedly transgressing their legitimate powers if they undertook to prevent his doing so. But if he wants to erect a building with a nine-inch wall, a hundred feet long, and seventy-five feet high, here is evidently something into which it is not only the privilege, but the duty, of the authorities to inquire. And the same principle that would require them to take cognizance of an attempt to put up a wall which is liable to come violently down upon the heads of people in the street, applies with fully as much force to the erection of buildings peculiarly in danger of taking fire and involving the whole neighborhood in a conflagration.

To a certain extent every one admits this very plain principle and the application we have just made of it. At the same time there are many persons who would consider their rights terribly invaded if a public officer, however competent he might be, and however polite and considerate in the discharge of his duty, should come upon their premises for the purpose of making a thorough examination as to whether suitable precautions had been taken in regard to fire. And yet, if the municipal authorities have a right to prohibit houses being built which are unsafe in this respect, they have certainly just as good a right to prevent their being allowed to become unsafe after they are erected. And, indeed, there are many cases where there is now a great deal of unnecessary risk, in which a judicious officer, by simply telling the inmates that the stove, or stove-pipe, or furnace-flue, or a gas-burner in a particular situation, or whatever else the source of danger might be, rendered the house unsafe, could, without any resort to authoritative measures, remedy the whole difficulty.

A well-considered code of municipal regulations in regard to precautions against fire, and an efficient system of inspection to see that these regulations are complied with, would do a great deal in preventing fires in our cities, but no city in the Union has either one or the other. In most of our cities, nearly or quite all the code of regulations in the matter is merely a law against the erection of wooden structures within certain limits, and almost all the inspection exercised is in regard to an exceedingly loose enforcement of that law. Negligent as the local authorities of most of our cities are in very many respects, there are none in which they are more so than in this. We know that public authorities cannot do everything in such a matter, but that is no reason why they should do so nearly exactly nothing, as has hitherto been their practice. Careless people, we are fully aware, will often continue to be careless in spite of all the regulations that can be made; and even where the utmost care is taken, unforeseen accidents will sometimes produce terrible conflagrations. But it is a part, and assuredly no unimportant part, of the business of a city government to guard as far as it is able against this carelessness and these accidents, and we know of nothing more needed for this object than a complete and efficient system of inspection, with reference to the removal of as many as possible of the causes which are liable to produce disasters like those of Chicago and Boston.

Metropolitan Music.

While criticism is not idle, and it is well that it should not be, concerning the various musical entertainments now offered to our public, the fact is worth note that, as a whole, these entertainments are superior to any ever before heard in New-York. There may have been at some time a finer performance of this or that opera, a given oratorio may have had better treatment, a solitary concert, here and there, may have been assigned higher rank, but taking all the music of the town in its aggregate, weighing together the secular and religious concerts and the lyrical works heard and to be heard, the New-York season of 1872-3 must be owned to be well in advance of any of its predecessors. It is worth while to consider, for a moment, the data on which this assumption is founded.

For the first classification named, the concerts of Herren RUBINSTEIN and WIENIAWSKI, and those of Mlle. PATTI and Signor MARIO will be confessed to have been, in their way, unsurpassable. To be sure, the great tenor does not sing in the concert-room as he once did. His best possible efforts at present demand the inspiration of the stage, on which, it is whispered, he is soon to appear; but there was much of the old grace and charm about Signor MARIO at Steinway Hall, notwithstanding. With the co-operation of Mlle. PATTI and her associates, these concerts became very notable events. Again, Herren RUBINSTEIN and WIENIAWSKI, unless we concede them to need the foil of inferiority, have hardly been fitly sustained by their companions; yet, it is to be readily admitted that it was those great maestros themselves the public went to hear, and not the padding with which convention requires their work to be eked out. These have been, thus far, the leading concerts wherein vocal and solo contributions have furnished the chief features.

The orchestral class of concerts have also developed remarkable excellences. The symphony concerts of Mr. THEODORE THOMAS would be admired by the most fastidious audience of Europe, and are emphatically a credit to New-York. We only regret they are not more frequent. The next will be given on the 28th of December—a long time hence. But the programme will be capital when it does come, and RUBINSTEIN will help to make it so. Meanwhile, the Philharmonic starts forth with the promise of new vigor and unusual diversity. The rehearsals have already begun, and the first concert—at which, likewise, Herr RUBINSTEIN will play—comes off on to-morrow evening, Saturday, Nov. 16. It has been suggested to us, by the way, by correspondents and old members, that an advertisement of the programme of current rehearsals would be beneficial, and perhaps the officer in charge will cause such an advertisement to be published. The public like to know what they are going to hear, and the contributions even of non-subscribers may properly help to pay expenses. We are not yet told what the Church Music Association and the Mendelssohn Union mean to do; but we shall soon hear, no doubt, of worthy efforts on their part to sustain the musical repute of New-York in a department of noble use, although one, unhappily, too much neglected. Pending this, we are glad to say that an effort has been made, under favorable auspices, to give good music at popular prices, at Association Hall. The first concert was heard there last Saturday afternoon, and the series is to be continued on each Saturday afternoon hereafter. Of the excellence of the entertainment our columns bore witness on Wednesday last; and all lovers of music must rejoice with us that so sterling a series is to be heard for the season at the low price of fifty cents a ticket.

Italian opera, so far this Fall, has had a sharp fight against adverse circumstances. Most of the singers have been more or less ill, and the weather has been peculiarly unfavorable for them. Mme. LUCCA has, however, done splendidly, winning on her public with every performance, even although fitter, on several of these occasions, for a sick room than the opera-house. Miss KELLOGG has never sung better, and never acted so well, and has made fresh friends to add to the hosts she possessed before. The tenors have not yet altogether come up to popular expectation; but Signor SPARAPANI, the baritone, has gradually gone beyond it, and Signori RONCONI and JAMET have well sustained their solid and hard-won reputations. Mr. MARETZEK has labored strenuously, with imperfect materials, to discharge his share of the task, and Mr. JARRETT has fulfilled his delicate and difficult supervisory functions in a manner to command respect and confidence. It is easy to speak harshly of the opera, and of course, as compared with the highest standard, we must allow, at several points, its incompleteness. That the management have acted in perfect good faith, however, we are sure. None of us can command the elements, or get sweet music from disordered instruments. Even with all the hindrances and botches, few such renderings have been heard here as those of the "Favorita," "Faust," "Traviata," "Nozze di Figaro," and "Fra Diavolo" this season, and now that the "Huguenots" and "Mignon" are assured us in the immediate future, we may hope for additional successes to come.

Many, meanwhile, will be interested to hear that, on and after Monday next, German opera is to be tried as a "fixed institution." The enterprising Mr. KOCH, of the Terrace Garden, has turned his fine hall into a handsome and spacious opera-house, which will be opened forthwith. Mme. LOUISE LICHTMAY is the chief soprano; Miss CLARA PERL, Mr. WILLIAM HORN, Mr. CHARLES SPEIGLER, and Mr. FRITZ LAFONTAINE are of the company; and Mr. CARL BERGMANN is the efficient musical director and conductor. Thus, long before even the most sanguine believers in the northern progress of things would have thought credible, an opera-house suddenly starts up in Fifty-eighth-street; and if it prospers we shall be unlikely to hear of similar projects hereafter that they are "too far up-town." All this is quite in keeping with the general character of improvement we have claimed; we may not attain perfection in a day, but the musical standards of the Metropolis are pressing steadily onward and upward, and there is abundant reason for hope and congratulation in what New-York has achieved, and is achieving, in this grand department of art.

The Mormons on the Right Track at Last.

There appears to be little doubt that the Mormon leaders are setting their faces toward the East, and have determined to transfer the Church of Latter-day Saints from the setting to the rising sun. The prophet BRIGHAM has wisely concluded that it is useless to attempt any longer to obstruct the path of empire in its westward course, and that the only way to save himself and preserve the unity of his Church, is to leave the front and get in the rear of the tide of emigration and modern civilization. If he can succeed in transferring the Saints to Palestine, he will be reasonably secure from any further annoyance from unbelieving Gentiles during the remainder of his life, and can add new dispensations to the Mormon faith at his pleasure. Polygamy, which seems to be the most cherished, as it was the last, of the Mormon dispensations, will there find a congenial clime. In their new home, BRIGHAM and his apostles will have the advantage of high precedent, and can point to the "oldest settlers" of the land of Judea.

We trust, therefore, that the new movement in the Mormon Church will meet with hearty encouragement from the Gentile world, and that, if need be, the Government will aid, in all lawful ways, the hegira of the Saints to their Eastern abode. BRIGHAM is, for once, on the right track, and should receive a genuine God-speed from the whole American people. He cannot possibly do any harm to the morals of Palestine, and would be pretty sure to improve the industrial habits of its people, while Uncle Sam would be rid of a very disagreeable and disreputable tenant. We trust, therefore, that the distinguished party of Mormon dignitaries who are about to make an excursion to the Holy Land, to select a site for their new city, will meet with abundant success in the fulfillment of their mission. And, while we think of it, there is another sect, or set, of moral nuisances that would do well to bear them company. We refer to the free-lovers. There ought to be a natural bond of sympathy between them and the Mormons, and there is no reason why they should not unite their destinies together. If we may be allowed the liberty, we would also suggest to the Mormon missionaries the propriety of inviting the lately-deposed chiefs of Tammany Hall along with them. They would make excellent financiers and book-keepers for the new Mormon colony, and, as they are all in a mood to migrate at present, we have no doubt they could be induced to join any party of saints, or even of sinners, who would agree to pilot them beyond the bounds of civilization and law. With the Mormons, the free-lovers, and the Tammany Sachems all transported from our shores, and firmly settled on the banks of the Jordan, Uncle Sam would be able to draw a long breath, and ejaculate an extra hallelujah in honor of the Star-spangled Banner.

MINOR TOPICS.

The World wades through a column editorial to prove two things: First—That Gen. GRANT and his Administration were not indorsed by the people at the recent election; and, second, that the Democratic Party still lives. The proof of the first proposition consists, according to the World, in the fact that some Democrats, who could not "eat crow," stayed at home on election day, and did not vote at all. The second proposition appears to have required more elaborate argument, and, lest we should be accused of misrepresenting our neighbor, or possibly of not comprehending his logic, we will quote his own lucid and convincing statement of the case:

> "If anybody will but make love to the truth for five minutes, he may see that the Grant party, if not dead indeed, (and perhaps the doings on Guy Fawkes' day may be taken for evidence tending at least to show the existence of such an entity and its exhibition of some signs of animation,) has no vital principle save 'the cohesive power of public plunder;' while the Democratic Party, if not victorious, indeed, exclusively possesses these limbs of vigor and this deathless soul, that it comprises all those who think the same thing concerning the Republic—the thought of its founders and builders—the thought by which today it rolls on to consummate its full century of life despite that now and heretofore it has been nearly physicked to death with the nostrums of aborted monarchy-men."

It may be that the Democratic Party still lives, but if the above is to be taken as a sample of the brains that continue to animate its body, it soon will be dead—or ought to be.

One of our Courts decided an interesting legal question the other day. A man had applied for a limited divorce from his wife, on the ground of her cruel treatment of him. It was an unusual application, for, although hundreds of women have obtained like divorces for a similar cause, husbands are not addicted to appealing for legal protection against their wives. Nevertheless, it seemed just to this particular applicant that whatever was regarded as judicial sauce for the husband ought to serve equally well as sauce for the wife, and he, therefore, confidently applied for his limited divorce. He failed, however, to obtain it, for the Court decided that a decree of limited divorce is a remedy expressly reserved for ladies only, and that the husband, to whose head the application of domestic broom-sticks and flat-irons is a daily occurrence, must either bear his sufferings in silence, or take the extreme course of abandoning his too demonstrative wife. If BLACKSTONE held that woman was the favorite of the English law, even in the days when she had no particular rights, what would he think of the American law, which allows to the wife an action for divorce which is forbidden to the husband?

The Police have authority in this City to break up such houses as are notoriously the resort of thieves and disorderly characters, and in which disorders are continually occurring. Will some one explain why the den of Reddy the Blacksmith is never, by any accident, interfered with? It is universally known to be the resort of the worst classes of the community, and robberies and shooting affrays constantly take place in it. Only the other night a man who had foolishly entered it to obtain a drink was set upon by the choice spirits therein assembled, hustled into the street, and robbed of a considerable sum of money. One of the ruffians whom he suspected of the robbery was arrested, at his request; but the Police have not shown the slightest evidence that they regard Reddy's rendezvous of roughs as an objectionable place. This man can commit any number of crimes and outrages, and his den may be the nightly scene of robbery and violence, but he is never put to any serious inconvenience by the Magistrates or the Police.

Acting on the presumption that a town is responsible for the shortcomings of its public officers, a resident of North Branford, Conn., named JOHN APPELL, lately brought suit to recover $141, which sum he claims to have earned, last Winter, in attending a member of his own family who was ill with small-pox. This bill includes an item for damage done to property, at the suggestion of the "Selectmen," to whose lack of foresight he to a great extent attributes the prevalence of the disease referred to. The trial of this cause very naturally will excite a good deal of interest, for the reason that others have suffered a pecuniary loss by the ravages of small-pox as well as APPELL, and, provided he be successful, will doubtless follow his example. If all those who have suffered by the horrors of the Blackwell's Island Small-pox Hospital were to bring action against this City, what a bill could be presented for settlement!

Nothing short of the pillory or the whipping-post would seem to be able to furnish an adequate amount of punishment for the wretch who could be so lost to all sense of feeling and pity as to use the death of a child—perhaps an only one—as the subject for a "practical joke" upon the afflicted parents. A few nights since, there was a case of this kind at St. Albans, Vt. Some scoundrel made an effigy of a child that had been dead for several days, and under cover of night, placed it outside of the front door of the house occupied by the father and mother; and, no doubt, from a distance gloated over the horror created by the discovery. The perpetrator of this outrage, we regret to hear, has contrived to remain unknown. If found immediately after the horrible trick had succeeded, his life would, in all probability, have paid the penalty. The propriety of practical joking is questionable, even when indulged in for the most innocent purposes; carried to the extent of wounding the finest sensibilities of human nature, it becomes infamous.

The tax-payers of Tiverton, R. I., have just had a very important service done them. During quite a long time they have been seriously divided upon a question which involved the erection of a new school-house to take the place of an old and uncomfortable structure. The young men were in favor of a new building, while the old ones tenaciously adhered to the idea that what was good enough for them ought to be good enough for their descendants. The struggle had almost come to a crisis, when the dispute was settled in favor of the young men in quite a unique manner. While some workmen were engaged in quarrying stones close to the object of contention, an explosion occurred which was so much more powerful than was expected that it threw a tremendous piece of rock upon the school-house, shattering the roof and walls in such a way as to necessitate the erection of a new building. Luckily, the teachers and children were outside at the time of the accident.

AMUSEMENTS.

Musical.

ITALIAN OPERA.

Mme. Lucca will positively appear this evening. She will be heard in "Le Nozze di Figaro." To-morrow the lady will sing at the matinée. "Faust" is then to be the opera, and is to supply the audience not only with the last opportunity this season of enjoying Mme. Lucca's remarkable personation of Margarita, but with the last chance but one of attending a day representation in which the bright particular star of Mr. Maretzek's galaxy will shine.

NOTES.

A Rubinstein concert is to take place this evening at Steinway Hall, and the matinée, to-morrow, will close the series of entertainments in which Messrs. Rubinstein and Wieniawski have been pleasantly conspicuous throughout this week....The last rehearsal previous to the first Philharmonic concert (to occur to-morrow evening) may be attended this afternoon, at the Academy of Music. Mr. Rubinstein will be the solo artist....The arrival in this City, from Munich, of Herr Federlein, a musician well known in Germany, is announced.

Miscellaneous.

MR. FORREST'S READINGS.

Next week, Mr. Edwin Forrest will enter, for the first time in New-York, a new field of public entertainment and instruction. The tragedian will read "Hamlet" on Tuesday, Nov. 19, at Steinway Hall; and will follow up that performance by reading "Othello" on the succeeding Friday. A considerable share of Mr. Forrest's success has been due to the singular melody and power of his voice; and, if less capable, in some other physical respects, of giving the great effect to all of his dramatic impersonations that he once did, in this regard, we believe, he retains all his pristine force and magnetism. When Mr. Forrest last acted here, the increased refinement, subtlety, and delicacy of his readings was the theme of much discussion, and there will be great curiosity to enjoy these beauties without any of the drawbacks with which, on the occasion referred to, they were associated.

AID FOR BOSTON.

Mr. Maurice Neville, a young Hungarian actor, will give an entertainment, to consist of readings and recitations, in aid of the suffering working girls of Boston, at the Cooper Institute, on Thursday evening next. Mr. Neville is to be complimented on being first in the field in a very good cause.

BRYANT'S MINSTRELS.

Bryant's Minstrels are now representing a burlesque on "King Carrot," which may be commended to splenetic persons as a great deal more amusing than the gorgeous spectacle it caricatures. They interpret, besides, the familiar musical programme which invariably prefaces the miscellaneous portion of a minstrel entertainment; and, in the latter part of the evening, Mr. Dan Byrant, Messrs. Kelly and Leon, and a host of sable associates, appear in a selection of laughable acts. Bryant's Minstrels appeal to patronage not only by a capital bill, but by the elegance of the theatre in which their performances are given. Minstrelsy has, in no part of the world, so bright and cheerful a home as that which the opera-house, in West Twenty-third-street, has, for the past two years, given it in this City.

How Tammany Elects its Candidates.

A TIMES reporter visited the Seventh Precinct Station-house, last evening, for the purpose of examining the election returns furnished to the Police by the inspectors of election. The examination resulted in the discovery of a number of "errors," as they were facetiously termed. In the Fourth Election District of the Fourth Assembly District, the vote for Shields, the Tammany candidate for Alderman, is 370, while the total registration of the district is only 222. In the Fifteenth Election District of the Fourth Assembly District the vote counted for Shields is 308, while the whole vote cast was only 277. In making up Shields' vote the inspectors presumed too much on the registration of the district, which is 351. In the Third Election District of the Fourth Assembly District the distribution of the vote is remarkable. Shields gets 251 votes, while the remainder of the Tammany ticket gets but 107, and the Republican ticket not a solitary vote.

It will be seen that deliberate fraud has been committed, and it is to be hoped that steps will be taken at once to rectify the matter. On election day the supporters of Tommy Shields were loud in their assertions that he would be elected at all hazards, and the following day Shields formed one of the conclave which busied itself so industriously about the returns in Manierre's room, at Police Head-quarters. The scheme to "count in" Lawrence proved unsuccessful. It remains to be seen if Shields can carry his point any better.

Hall and Brennan.

Considerable stir was made yesterday among the hangers-on about the City Hall and the Court-house by the announcement that a non prosequi had been entered in the case of Mayor Hall. So eagerly was the statement circulated that it was believed to be true by many. A TIMES reporter called on District-Attorney Garvin, and inquired if the rumor was correct. Mr. Garvin thought it quite amusing that any one could be found to believe it, and emphatically denied that any such proceeding had been entered upon or even thought of. When asked if Hall would soon be put on trial again, the District-Attorney expressed the opinion that no immediate steps would be taken in the case. As for himself, he sincerely hoped that the conduct of the prosecution in the next trial of Hall would not fall upon him, as he much preferred that the duty devolve upon his successor.

As another rumor, to the effect that Sheriff Matt Brennan had been indicted for certain irregularities in his office, has also been industriously circulated, our reporters asked Mr. Garvin if it was true. He at once denied it, and appeared surprised at the question; so that rumor was also disposed of.

There is trouble, however, in the camp of the Sheriff, and, as a result of the election, Brennan is cutting off from pay and position all of his subordinates who in any way contributed to the success of his opponents. Dame Rumor, though very busy yesterday in the City and County offices, found time to mention the names of Deputies Smith, Dunphy, Rowe, and Cuff as among the decapitated, and others are to follow.

Thanksgiving Proclamation by Gov. Parker, of New-Jersey.

During the year now drawing to a close the people of this State have been preserved from pestilence; industrial pursuits have prospered; an abundant harvest has rewarded the labor of the husbandman, and civil strife has been averted.

That we may publicly acknowledge our dependence upon God, and in united worship express our thankfulness for the blessings He has, in mercy, bestowed upon us,

I, Joel Parker, Governor of the State of New-Jersey, do designate Thursday, the 28th day of November, inst., as a day of Thanksgiving and Prayer, and recommend to the people that on that day they assemble in their usual places of public worship to give thanks to Almighty God for His manifold blessings, and to pray for their continuance.

[L. S.] Given under my hand and seal, at the Executive Chamber in the city of Trenton, the twelfth day of November, A. D. eighteen hundred and seventy-two.

JOEL PARKER.

Attest—JOHN A. HALL, Private Secretary.

THE LECTURE SEASON.

MECHANICS' AND TRADESMEN'S LECTURES.

George Wm. Curtis' Discourse on Women in the Old Time and the New.

Mr. Geo. W. Curtis delivered the first of a series of lectures, under the auspices of the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen of the City of New-York, at Steinway Hall, last evening, before an unusually large and respectable audience. His subject was, "Women in the Old Time and in the New." He said that the olden time always appeared to us more reverent and romantic than our day. We feel as if beauty was more beautiful and valor more heroic, and it seems that we were left on the lees of time and the world's decrepitude. We deplore everything in our own time, and the social moralist of our day condemns the expensive dresses of our fashionable women, and asks why cannot they be like their predecessors of a few hundred years ago? He laments that women have descended to French dolls, whose color is made up of paint, whose head is loaded with dyed hair and horse-hair stuff, [laughter,] whose waist is reduced to a cipher, and who believe weakness grace, and affectation simplicity. But in Queen Elizabeth's time that lady left three thousand dresses after her, and the women of that time, like those of ours, were as fond of dress and display, and the same extravagances and expenses that our moralists deplore. Mr. Curtis, in a highly-humorous tone, related numerous instances of the pretty follies of women of the olden time, and said that the progress of civilization was really the freedom from the theories of those good old times. One of the grandest results of this progress was the evidence of the constantly-increasing position and estimate of women in modern society, and a great illustration of this historical advance was the rapid opening of every opportunity of education to women. We point to the days of Pericles with regret at our degeneracy; but the idea pronounced by that great mind was that women, like children, should be seen but not heard. Through all ages and all countries, from that time to this, in their dealings with women, the sole purpose of mankind seemed to be to deprive woman of the means of knowledge, under the belief that with education she would acquire a contempt for her husband and affection for every coxcomb whose ideas in this respect corresponded with her own. The wife of John Adams, one of the most accomplished women of her age, wrote that in her day the female education was confined to reading and writing, and in some few instances music and dancing. This movement for education among women found root in Boston forty years since, and created a profound sensation among male bipeds, because of the crowds who sought intelligence. The more languages a man has, the more a man is he, said the sage; and the more knowledge a woman has, the better wife and mother is she, says the common sense of the age. [Applause.] In this country there were now 337 collegiate institutions, and in seventy-seven of them, including the University of Michigan and Cornell University, both sexes were taught together. The great authorities of this country agree that co-education is better for both sexes, and upon the very points which seem at the first hearing the most objectionable. Socrates considered that women were intended only for good housewives and fruitful mothers, and Chesterfield of modern times spoke of them as children of large growth, without comprehensive sense, and whom it was man's duty to flatter and trifle with. Flattery he described as the invariable companion of contempt, and he who flattered women most scorned and despised them deepest. He condemned the idea that women were intellectually below men as a return to the savage belief, and asserted that the toasting of women's health by maudlin festive-seekers at public banquets was not much different from the drinking of their health in her slipper, as was done in England on a notable occasion in years past. Home, he willingly admitted, was the sphere of woman, but education did not unsphere her. It gave Nilsson and Mott the power and wish to benefit the world by the genius with which heaven inspired them. He pointed to the characters and career of Joan of Arc, Ida Lewis, Grace Darling, Florence Nightingale, Mrs. Stowe, and a thousand others, as evidence of the genius, power, grace, and modesty of womanhood, and concluding, eloquently declared that women graced home and rendered life beautiful, but they would be a thousand times better fitted for their positions of wives and mothers and Christian women, by educating the talents which God gave them for His own great ends. [Applause.]

THE IRISH QUESTION.

Ireland Under the Tudors and the Stuarts—Second Lecture by Father Burke in Reply to Mr. Froude.

Rev. Mr. Burke delivered the second of his course of lectures, last evening, at the Academy of Music—subject, "Ireland under the Tudors and Stuarts." The attendance was somewhat more numerous than on Tuesday last. Mr. Burke said that the period which the lecture dealt with was the most terrible and calamitous in Irish history. Mr. Froude had stated that "Henry VIII. was a hater of disorder." Well, said Mr. Burke, every man has his hero—every man selects some character out of history which he admires, and makes the subject of his hero-worship. But Mr. Froude made a most singular selection of his hero in Henry VIII., the English Nero. All order is based on three grand principles—respect for the law, liberty of conscience, and the sanctity of the marriage tie. The lecturer then proceeded to sketch the various salient incidents of the reign of Henry VIII., tending to prove that the monarch was not remarkable for a very pure life. Was it fair, asked Mr. Burke, for Mr. Froude to come before an enlightened American audience and ask them to swallow the paradox that Henry VIII. was a lover of order?

Mr. Burke cited letters from Surrey, whom Henry had sent to Ireland at the head of an army, to show that the disorders which Mr. Froude stated to be chronic there, were attributable to the unparalleled injustice and exactions of the Anglo-Norman Barons—and that whatever petty jealousies existed among the chiefs, were artfully fostered by the English and turned to their own account.

Mr. Burke took up Mr. Froude's statement that Henry never deprived the Irish of their land, or exterminated them, and proceeded to show from State papers that the plan to banish the Irish beyond the Shannon was matured by Henry, but he was not strong enough to carry it out. The lecturer went into lengthy details of the action of the Irish hierarchy on the question of the Pope's supremacy, and took Mr. Froude to task for his want of knowledge of the principles of the Roman Catholic religion. Mr. Froude asserts, said Mr. Burke, that the Irish "threw the Pope overboard, but remained Catholic." One of the great principles of the Catholic religion is communion with and obedience to the See of Rome, and no man can sever his connection with Rome and remain a Catholic. The various persecutions waged by Edward, Mary, and Elizabeth, alternately, against Catholic and Protestant were criticised by Mr. Burke, who cited Ware and Leland, showing that when Catholics were in power they did not stain themselves with the taint of bigotry, and read an extract from an act of Parliament convened in Dublin by James I., composed almost entirely of Catholics, which enacted that "neither now nor ever hereafter shall any man in this country be persecuted or suffer any civil disability on account of his religious belief." The confiscation of the vast estates of Desmond and of the whole of the province of Ulster was cited by Mr. Burke as evidence of the unparalleled plunder of the English and their persistent efforts to exterminate the Irish race. Mr. Burke concluded by denying the right of Mr. Froude, or any other man, to come to this free country, where religious persecution was unknown, and ask its citizens to give a verdict sanctioning this long record of unrelenting persecution and wholesale robbery.

John G. Saxe on French Folks.

At the hall of the East-side Association, Eighty-sixth-street, near Third-avenue, last evening, a lecture was delivered by John G. Saxe, on "French Folks." He began with their police, which he considered the best in the world; then alluded to the economy, industry, and artistic skill of the French; then touched upon their love for flowers, respect for the dead, amusements, dancing, &c., and gave descriptions of the Jardin Mabille, beau monde, and demi monde. He next alluded to their vivacity, but at the same time spoke of their keenness of anguish and sorrow. Their enthusiasm, impulse, politeness, habit of swearing, want of religion, &c., were touched upon, and a description given of the French homes, especially in Paris. The lecture was closed with a sketch of the griselles and other women of France, comparing the fickleness of the former with the devotion of the French wives. The entertainment concluded with a recitation of two of the lecturer's humorous poems.

Memorial Resolutions Adopted by the Union League Club.

At the monthly meeting of the Union League Club, held at the Club-house last evening, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased an allwise Providence to remove from the sphere of his usefulness an officer of our army, distinguished for his many and brilliant services in the field during the late rebellion; the Commander who led the Army of the Potomac to triumph on the bloody field of Gettysburg, and second in command only to the General-in-Chief, fought with the same army the terrible battles of the Wilderness; therefore,

Resolved, That in the death of Major-Gen. George Gordon Meade, the country loses a valued servant, the army a beloved leader, and his fellow-citizens one whose example may well be emulated.

Resolved, That the name of Gen. Meade will live in the memory of our people, inscribed with the names of Sedgwick, McPherson, Sumner, Wadsworth, and Thomas, on the roll of those who have deserved well of their country.

The death of our associate and brother, John A. Griswold, of Troy, is an event of such importance as to call for emphatic notice from the members of the Union League, the Club, therefore,

Resolved, That we record our hearty testimony to the purity of his character, the strength of his patriotism, and the earnestness and integrity of his whole career.

Resolved, That we recognize gratefully his eminent public services in the struggle of our nation for liberty and life, and that in the triumph of our Navy, and in the whole regeneration of our national spirit, he has left marks of his loyalty and self-sacrifice.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be duly attested and sent to the family of the deceased.

THE PIPE OF PEACE.

A Movement to Unite the Tammany and Apollo Hall Factions of the Democracy—What the Leaders Say.

The rival factions represented by Tammany and Apollo Halls are preparing to smoke the pipe of peace, and unite as one organization. Ex-United States District-Attorney Samuel G. Courtney (of Apollo Hall) says that the movement has commenced in good earnest, that the best men in Tammany favor it, and that the honest reformers in Apollo Hall have held one meeting to consider the matter, and will soon hold another, at which it is probable that something definite will be done. Mr. Wm. C. Barrett (of Apollo Hall) says that the movement has his warm sympathy, and will secure his earnest support, if carried on in good faith, and for the simple purpose, without regard to the private ends of any leaders, of uniting all honest Democrats in this City in favor of reform measures. Ex-County Clerk William C. Conner, who is one of Tammany's Sachems, says that Tammany, while not seeking a union with Apollo Hall, will not throw any obstacle in the way of such a union, but will not sacrifice ex-Sheriff John Kelly, or any other Tammany leader whose record is good, simply to please the Apollo Hall faction. He has no doubt that if a union is effected, some men must be ostracized on both sides; but he says that such men must be men inimical to reform, and not men whose expulsion is sought simply on account of envy, hatred, or political rivalry; in short, that if the Apollo Hall adherents are in favor of a union with Tammany Hall in the interest of reform, Tammany will meet them in good faith, but that if these adherents are simply acting in the interest of political leaders, Tammany wants nothing to do with them. He says that these are the views entertained by all the Tammany leaders who are workers in the interest of reform.

THE EQUINES.

The New Disease Among Horses and Its Peculiarities.

No very serious results are likely to attend the dropsical form assumed by the horse disease. Horsemen differ as to the probable spread of the disease. A number incline to the belief that only such horses will be attacked as are worn out and whose constitutions are not sufficiently strong to throw off the effects of the old disease. Others assert that the disease, while undoubtedly a complication arising from the epizoötic, is not dropsy. This theory is supported by the fact that in several stables the animals affected have exhibited symptoms that are not the accompaniments of dropsy, such as the sudden and unaccountable shifting of the swelling from the hind legs and belly into the head, leaving the parts first affected in their normal condition. All of the horses up to the time of attack were in perfect health, and not in the least debilitated. At the Third-avenue stables no fresh cases have occurred since Wednesday, and no deaths from the dropsy were reported yesterday. Three or four horses suffering in these stables will not recover. At the Second-avenue no deaths have occurred up to the present. At the Sixth-avenue stables there are four or five cases, but up to yesterday no deaths had occurred. No deaths are reported at the stables of any of the stage companies.

Progress of the Disease South and West.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 14.—The horse disease has made its appearance here. Upward of fifty cases were reported today.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 14.—The horse plague is spreading here, but there have been very few deaths from it. The weather is cold and raw.

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 14.—The horse dropsy appeared here today, affecting animals previously taken with the epizoötic.

WHEELING, West Va., Nov. 14.—The epizootic is steadily on the increase in this locality.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—There does not appear to be any subsidence of the horse disease in this city, and several cases of dropsy have occurred. No street-cars were running today. Merchants and others whose business necessitates the delivery of goods continue to buy oxen, the prices of which range from $100 to $250 per yoke. Advices from the surrounding country represent the disease as prevailing extensively. Thirteen dead horses were reported today at Police Head-quarters.

J. J. Woodward, Assistant Surgeon in charge of the Army Medical Museum, says: Within the last few days I have collected the organic forms from a quantity of the air of a stable in this city in which were a number of the sick horses, and submitted them to the highest powers of the microscope without finding any which are not usually encountered when no epidemic is prevailing, and I have also subjected the mucus discharge from the nostrils of several horses to similar examination with like negative results.

The Civil Suits Against Tweed—Judge Barrett's Decision Sustained.

The appeal in the case of the Board of Supervisors against William M. Tweed was argued yesterday in Supreme Court, General Term, before Judges Ingraham, Brady, and Leonard, the plaintiffs being represented by Messrs. Richard O'Gorman, Corporation Counsel, John K. Porter, and William Ticknor Curtis; and the defendant by David Dudley Field and John A. Burrill. The appeal, it will be remembered, is from the decision of Judge Barrett, rendered at Special Term, overruling the demurrer to the complaints interposed on behalf of the defendant, and is intended to determine whether the people of the State and the Supervisors of the County can maintain separate suits against the defendant on a cause of action growing out of the same subject matter; and if not, which of the parties plaintiff have the right to prosecute. The points presented by respective counsel were the same as those urged before Judge Barrett at Special Term, and already published.

At the close of the argument, and after a few minutes' conversation by the Judges, Presiding Judge Ingraham said the allegations in the complaint being admitted by the demurrer, an action on behalf of the County clearly lay; that as to the decision of the General Term of the Third District, it was made upon other pleadings, setting forth, in some respects, other facts; that upon those facts, as admitted by demurrer in that case, the Judges delivering the opinion of the General Term were not agreed, and even the majority of the Judges who did agree in that decision did not seem to be agreed as to the grounds of their decision; that, under these circumstances, that decision could not be regarded as in anywise governing the action of the Court in this case. This Court, therefore, had no course to pursue except to sustain the decision of the Special Term overruling the demurrer, and such was its decision. On application of Mr. Fields, the Court directed that the order of affirmance should allow the defendant forty days from the day of its service on him to put in an answer to the complaint.

Meeting of the Medico-Legal Society—Juries and Physicians on Questions of Insanity.

The Medico-Legal Society of the City of New-York held its monthly meeting, last evening, at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Twenty-third-street, Mr. Clark Bell, President. Mr. Stephen Rogers delivered an address, congratulating the Society on its encouraging prospects. The inaugural of the Chairman followed, in which he made special mention of the fact that while most lawyers had been taught medical jurisprudence as a part of their education, the same could not be said of physicians. Was there any reason why a medical expert should not be versed in any legal question which might arise? He was quite sure that the establishment of a chair of medical jurisprudence in one of the medical colleges of this City would be desirable. A library of works on the same subject he believed to be also necessary. Mr. R. S. Guernsey then read the paper of the evening on "Juries and Physicians on Questions of Insanity." After quoting largely from medical and legal authorities on the subject, and speaking of the importance of the duty of medical experts in trials where insanity was pleaded as a defense, the author came to the conclusion that if any change be made in the law governing such trials, it should be to take the question of sanity or insanity from an irresponsible jury and place it in the hands of a responsible judiciary. The reading of the paper excited some discussion. The meeting then adjourned.

The Social Reform Movement on the East Side.

In response to the appeal made by Rev. A. Wiswall in St. John's Chapel, on the 20th ult., in behalf of the poor of the Sixth and Eighth Wards, a large amount of money has been sent in, sufficient to justify the Guild in commencing the great work which was at that time outlined. In order to abolish street-begging, cards have been printed and placed in the hands of the citizens residing in those Wards. These cards are to be given to mendicants who beg from door to door, directing these people to the office of the Guild, where, if found to be really destitute, they will be promptly relieved out of the fund.

Arrangements have also been made with an extensive shirt manufacturer to furnish work for all unemployed females who can sew. A laundry will also be established, to give employment to another class of labor, and the important work of frequently visiting every poor family in these two Wards has been begun. Every Monday evening the ladies of that locality meet at St. John's Chapel for the purpose of making garments for children and grown people who are found destitute of such articles. A physician has also been employed to visit the destitute sick at their homes without charge, and medicine will also be furnished gratuitously. Everything will be done within the bounds of reason to carry to the homes of the poor without regard to creed or color, that comfort and consolation which is due them from their more prosperous fellow-men. On Monday next we will acknowledge the subscription to this fund.

The object of the Employment Bureau is simply to furnish temporary work for those who need it until situations can be obtained for them. Persons, therefore, requiring help will find it to their advantage to apply at the office of the Guild, St. John's Chapel. No fees are asked, as the executive work is entirely voluntary.

AFFAIRS IN ENGLAND.

Review of British Events and Opinions.

French Dissatisfaction—Mr. Froude's Mission and its Impression—Lecturing and Lecturers—"The Times" and Canada—The Mother Country and Her Colonies.

From Our Own Correspondent.

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 2, 1872.

The country is still very sore and sensitive. There is a general chorus of growling and grumbling at the bad weather, the high prices, the imbecility of the Government, the degradation of England, and the apparent inability of other nations to appreciate her as she deserves. A few days ago the Times took Mr. Froude to task for daring to offer himself as an authoritative exponent of English views on Ireland, and now the Times is itself denounced in violent terms for its gross misrepresentation of English opinion in regard to Canada. I have myself heard only one judgment on Mr. Froude's knight-errantry. It is universally condemned and distrusted. Some think he had much better have stopped at home; everybody admits the indiscretion of deliberately and avowedly attaching a political meaning to his lectures. He should, people say, have been content to deliver his lectures, and leave his audience to point the moral for themselves. Mr. Froude has been most unfairly and even dishonestly attacked for alleged errors in his History of England. That a book of this kind, based for the most part on unpublished manuscript evidence, could be written without any inaccuracies, was, of course, out of the question. Mr. Froude himself would be the last man to advance any pretensions of this kind. He has no doubt tripped here and there in regard to details; but the most malicious criticism has failed to shake public confidence in the substantial accuracy of his work, as far as matters of fact are concerned. On the other hand, as to his estimates of historical persons, his theory of events, there is room for endless difference of opinion. It is not his facts, but the impressions which they convey to his imagination, which form the dangerous element in the History. It must be evident to any one who reads it that Mr. Froude is very sentimental and impulsive. He is not a hard, close reasoner. It is probable, therefore, that such a subject as the relations between England and Ireland would be more satisfactorily treated by a man of a more positive turn of mind. Apart from this, it may be doubted whether the Irish are likely to be conciliated by being held up to the Americans as a race of fools and liars. It might have been natural to go to them directly, face to face, and try to reason them out of their delusions; but to denounce them in a friend's home will only intensify their irritation, and put them in the worst possible frame of mind for listening to rational argument. Another thing which weighs in the English mind against Mr. Froude's enterprise is the sort of contempt which is felt for lecturing in this country. Men of position, either in literature or politics, rarely lecture here. They do it sometimes, but not often. The Philosophical Institution in Edinburgh and one or two other similar societies throughout the country get up annual series of lectures, and an effort is always made to get some known public man to open the season. But this is often difficult to manage, and the ordinary run of lecturers are obscure and undistinguished. The lecture-hall has degenerated into a refuge for weak-minded folk who are too bigoted for the theatre and too lazy or stupid to read, and who, from the habit of attending sermons, have got into the way of taking what little intellectual nourishment they require, like Joey Ladle, "through the pores." Public speaking is left almost exclusively to lawyers, professors, clergymen, and politicians. The lawyer speaks from the bar, the professor from his desk in the class-room, the preacher from his pulpit. The politician has the platform pretty much to himself. A man of letters, who throws his voice and personal appearance into the scale, is usually distrusted. Thackeray's lectures and Dickens' readings were altogether exceptional exercises, and failed to set the fashion. All this makes Mr. Froude's self-imposed mission more quixotic in the eyes of Englishmen.

THE TIMES ON CANADA.

As everybody knows, the London Times is one of the most cautious and circumspect journals in existence. Its policy is not to anticipate, but at the most to keep abreast with opinion. On Wednesday, however, it published an article on Canada, which was certainly startling in the rough candor of its language. It was to the effect that the Canadians had been very badly used by the British Government during the whole course of the American negotiations; that their interests had been uniformly sacrificed, and that, as there was no hope of their ever having justice done to them by a Ministry in London, they had better cut the connection at once, and set up on their own account. To have said that if the Canadians desired to be independent of the mother country, they had only to mention it and go, would have created no surprise. Everybody knows this, and none better than the Canadians. The whole course of colonial policy, ever since the war which freed the United States, has been in this direction. The colonies are practically self-governing bodies, and the relation between them and the mother country is simply that of a voluntary confederacy. But the Times went much further than this. It assumed that the Canadians must of necessity be anxious to go, urged them to go—to go at once, and not to stand on the order of their going—and bade them Godspeed. As was to be expected, the article has evoked a storm of protest and repudiation. I don't think there is any very great love for or enthusiasm about Canada in this country. In fact, the Canadians have never done anything to excite enthusiasm. They are regarded as a quiet, steady-going, cold-blooded, and rather shabby set of people, who have made loyalty a little too much of an article of commerce, to be paid for on the nail. The British Columbians are more popular; their vigor, energy, and rough, wild life have excited a kind of romantic interest in them. But, taking the Dominion all round, I do not suppose the English people care a great deal about it. This may be only because they don't think much about the matter at all. If the question of separation were to assume an immediately practical shape, it is not improbable that there would be found to be a soft place in the national heart for the American colonies. However that may be, I should say there are two things about as certain as anything which is only a matter of opinion can be certain. And these are, first, that if the Dominion asked for independence in a deliberate, authentic manner, it would get it for the asking; and, second, that the Dominion will not be thrown off by England. If the Times wanted to provoke a strong expression of feeling in favor of Canada, it could not have done so more effectually than by suggesting that the people here are eager on their own account, and for selfish and cowardly reasons, to be rid of her. I do not know what the Canadians may think of the article, but if they desire—as to which I also know nothing—to remain connected with England, they should be very much obliged to the Times. In the present state of the public mind here—feverishly irritated by the supposition that all the world is pointing at England the finger of contempt and derision on account of the Alabama negotiations—nothing would be more likely to excite an outbreak of feeling on behalf of what is represented as a threatened colony than such an article as that in the Times. Everybody knows the situation in the melodrama. Angelica is menaced by a villain; Rudolpho swings her behind him, and declares that only over or through his body she can be reached. And this time, I should say, Rudolpho means it.

POLITICAL PROSPECTS.

The Government have had a taste of what may be called April weather for some time past—sunshine and showers, dark clouds, but only little driblets of rain from them. I suspect that bad weather of a more serious kind is now in store for them. The negotiations which, with other things, have helped to confirm the head of the State on one side of the Atlantic, bid fair to overthrow the head of the State, for the time being, over here. A storm is evidently brewing for the Ministry, and it is quite on the cards that the first month of the session may see it overthrown. It is every day becoming clearer that Mr. Gladstone's heroic Irish policy has not produced the immediate contentment in that country which he promised as its certain and assured result. Of course, no reasonable person supposed that it would have this effect, but political majorities are not invariably composed of reasonable persons. The appreciation of results is no less inadequate now than the expectation of results was extravagant before. Mr. Gladstone has done great things, but he has had the misfortune of generally doing them for wrong reasons and with a view to consequences which have not happened. He has the reputation of being an eminently spiritual person, but he has an odd way of always going in for material advantages. Govern Ireland according to Irish ideas, he said, and you will find it highly remunerative in the reduction of constabulary expenses. Get the United States to negotiate, and you are sure to wipe off a bad debt cheaply—this also was his advice. If he had said, "Do what you think just and right, and take the consequences," that would have been very well. But he assured everybody that it would pay to do what was just and right, and for the present, in a worldly sense, it has not paid—at least not obviously. For Mr. Gladstone and his Government this policy of making the best of both worlds is likely to be disastrous enough. His only safety lies in the fact that trade has been, on the whole, wonderfully prosperous, and the national revenue superabundant. By an avoidance of provocative measures, the Ministry may, next session, ward off attacks from the Conservatives, but they will have a difficult reckoning with the Radicals. You can't make two good cards pay in the same trick. The more the Ministry conciliate the Conservatives, the more they will alienate the Radicals; if they woo the Radicals, they exasperate the Opposition. The chances are that they will fall between the two stools.

BRITISH CLAIMS.

Awards Made by the Mixed Commission Under the Treaty of Washington and Claims Disallowed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The Mixed Commission on American and British Claims has made the following awards:

Seven thousand four hundred and forty-two dollars in gold, to be paid by the United States to Great Britain in respect to the claim of Thos. McDowell, for injuries to his dwelling-house, fencing, land, garden, &c., at Atlanta, and for timber cut, and two bales of cotton, and other property alleged to have been taken by Sherman's army.

Four hundred and seventy-one dollars in gold, on the claim of John Kates, for two horses, a saddle, and bridle, alleged to have been taken by the United States forces in the Shenandoah Valley in 1864, and the burning of a stack of hay at the same time. The counsel for the United States unsuccessfully resisted this claim on the ground that Gen. Sheridan executed his raid as a lawful act of war in the enemy's country. The property was not taken under requisition and with an implied promise of payment, but was captured from the enemy, perhaps destroyed, and perhaps appropriated. It was all of a character which might and ordinarily would be useful to the enemy, and, therefore, a legitimate subject of either capture or destruction, and for which the claimant, an enemy of the United States by his domicile, can make no reclamation before the Commission. The claimant had been for twenty-three years permanently domiciled in Virginia.

One hundred and fifty dollars in gold, on the claim of James McCabe for property alleged to have been taken by the troops under the command of Gen. Sherman, in Mississippi, February, 1864.

Five thousand six hundred and ninety-eight dollars in gold, on the claim of Timothy Dowling, for the injury and destruction of his house while in the possession of the military forces of the United States.

Seven hundred and seventy dollars in gold, on the claim of George Adlam. The claimant was domiciled in the United States since 1850, and had declared his intention of becoming a citizen in 1859. He occupied fifteen acres of land on Mission Ridge, lying between the opposing forces in that hotly-contested battle, on the 25th of November, 1863. He claimed for the value of his house, stable, corn-crib, and certain personal property alleged to have been taken by United States troops at and shortly after that battle.

Three thousand and fifty-six dollars in gold, on claim of John Turner, for his house and property, burned by the United States Army on McClellan's retreat in Virginia.

Thirteen thousand nine hundred and sixty-nine dollars in gold, on the claim of John Burnside, for mules, carts, and harness, taken by the military in Louisiana in 1862.

Seven thousand five hundred and sixty dollars, on claim of Michael Garry, for cattle furnished the United States on requisition by the Commissary of Subsistence, in November, 1863, in Louisiana. His claim was for $36,000.

The Commission disallowed the following claims: Francis Allsop declared himself a native of England and resident of Missouri and Illinois since 1861. He claimed for personal injuries and expulsion from his home by Federal troops, $3,000, and for property taken $2,000 more. The claimant offered no proof.

John N. Trook for farm rent, on the road leading from Washington to Alexandria, and for damages done to his premises. The entire claim was for $17,000, but it was declared not to be within the jurisdiction of the Commission.

Lucy J. Park, who alleged herself to be the widow of a British subject, claimed indemnity for the destruction, by United States troops, of a boarding-house and out-buildings in Tennessee, and for flour, corn, &c., alleged to have been taken by United States troops. The evidence was insufficient and besides the widow, by her own admission, was a citizen of the United States.

John Gummer, who claimed $1,200 for saddles and sadoler's stock, tools, hogs, corn, chickens, &c., alleged to have been consumed, taken away, and destroyed by United States troops, in Missouri, in November, 1864. In addition to insufficiency of proof, the claimant was, and had been since 1853, permanently domiciled within the United States, and in that portion which, during the war, was in the enemy's country.

Anne Murray, who claimed about $8,000 for certain tobacco alleged to have belonged to her and destroyed, injured or appropriated by the United States forces, at Farmville, Va., in April, 1865. The proofs were insufficient.

Charles Cleworth, who has been domiciled in this country since 1847, claimed $2,323 for damages to dwelling-house, &c., in Vicksburg, by United States troops. Nothing appeared in the case to charge the United States with any portion of the claimant's claim.

In the case of Annibal Maguire, a native of Canada, but since 1850 a resident of Louisiana, United States, counsel in resisting the claim for $10,000 says, notwithstanding Maguire's domicile for many years within the United States, and solemn declaration of his intention to forever disclaim and renounce all British allegiance, the claimant in 1863 had the assurance to raise the British flag over his house in Louisiana, and now has the assurance to claim its protection.

Poor Mothers' Meetings.

The system of mothers' meetings recently introduced by the Children's Aid Society, in connection with their industrial school work, has already produced most gratifying results. The main object in instituting these meetings, it seems, was to enable the poor mothers to become better acquainted with the teachers, and the general conduct of the schools. But benefits much more important than these have already sprung from the enterprise. At the close of a "mother's meeting" the other day at the Fifty-second-street Industrial School, a deputation of mothers waited on the teachers, and expressed their deep gratitude for what was being done for their children, and wished to know what they could do to assist them in their arduous work. The teachers pointed to a quantity of calico and other wearing material, and asked if any of them could help in cutting out some garments for the little ones. There was at once a rush of hands to pockets, bringing out scissors, thread, needles, &c., and in a very short time a large stock of garments lay upon the table, neatly cut and basted. Before the mothers left they resolved to meet fortnightly, and assist the teachers in cutting, sewing, cleaning, or doing anything that might be required of them. This is certainly a long step in the right direction. There is no class of workers more deserving of sympathy, aid, and encouragement, than the teachers in these industrial schools, and it is to be hoped that many mothers throughout the City will profit by the example set them at Fifty-second-street.

OBITUARY.

Miss O'Neill.

The London Standard of Nov. 1 prints the sketch appended: "In this age of universal and unrestricted opinion," it says, "when a gap is no sooner created in the ranks of the army of aspirants to fame than it is filled up, when the reputations which it has taken long years of labor to achieve are forgotten in the short afternoon of a Winter's day, only those who keep themselves unintermittently and immediately under the public eye can hope to be remembered when living, or to be missed when dead. If, half a century ago, the intelligence had been received in London that the great Miss O'Neill, the famous actress, about whom everybody raved, whose delineations of Mrs. Haller, Mrs. Beverley, and Belvidera, had taken rank among the highest models of dramatic imitation, was dead, then the entire town would have been distracted with woe. Each poet and poetaster of the period would have set himself to sing the praises of the great actress; each critic would have turned panegyrist; every saloon would have resounded with the praises of the personal beauty, the moral excellences, the unrivaled histrionic grace of Miss O'Neill; both cynics and men about town would have swelled the chorus of admiration with their tribute of sincere eulogy. More than fifty years have passed since Miss O'Neill took her farewell of the English boards. To the present generation of English play-goers her very name must be an unreality, or at best the dimmest of theatrical traditions. A day or two since the death of Lady Becher, relict of Sir William Wrixton Becher, was announced, and Lady Becher and Miss O'Neill were one and the same person. Long ago, Miss O'Neill had taken her place among those heroines of the drama of whom all that is left to us is their memory and their name. In the neighborhood in which she lived Lady Becher was known to the tenantry and the poor about her by many an unobtrusive act of endearing kindness. The great body of the public was hardly conscious that at some remote epoch of the century Miss O'Neill had divided the attention of the play-going world with Edmund Kean, and had been pronounced by some judges as superior to Mrs. Siddons. 'Miss O'Neill,' writes Byron, in one of the notes to Marino Faliero, 'I never saw, having made and kept a determination to see nothing which should divide or disturb my recollections of Siddons.' Such a career as Miss O'Neill's actually was is, it may be safely said, impossible in these modern times. Fervidly imaginative novelists may resuscitate it with latter-day accessories of scene and circumstance, but we know all the while that they are perpetrating an anachronism. Miss O'Neill was positively only five years before the public as an actress. She came, she was seen, she conquered. As her departure from the stage was one of unparalleled brilliancy, so was the occasion of her first success on the stage accidental. A provincial manager had engaged the services, for a very special part, of a great metropolitan star. The metropolitan star was a lady, and a very few hours before the performance was announced to commence, the lady left the theatre in a huff and declined to play. At that moment Miss O'Neill was absolutely unknown. But Miss O'Neill happened to be on the spot. She was asked at a moment's notice to fill the rôle of the recalcitrant tragedienne. She accepted the offer, and she brought down the house in her performance. The next morning Miss O'Neill found herself famous, and for five years she reigned without a rival whom she had need to fear. In pure tragedy she was, indeed, utterly eclipsed by Mrs. Siddons, but in pure pathos she was unapproachable by Mrs. Siddons herself. Her reign was too short for the public, but it was long enough for her fame. Her artistic career, from its commencement to its end, knew neither reverse nor uncertainty. The blaze of triumph which her first appearance before an English audience kindled lived on steadily till the moment of her sudden departure. The theatrical biography of Miss O'Neill is absolutely unique in the annals of the stage, strange as are the vicissitudes and brilliantly rapid the alternations in which those annals abound."

"A GOOD THING STARTED."

"We took occasion in a recent issue to speak of the miserable lettering of the street names upon the lamps of this City. Last evening there was an exhibition at the corner of 5th-av. and 23d-st. (Fifth-avenue Hotel) of a new improvement which seems to meet the wants of the people—the addition of a circle (or band) of ground glass raised upon the globe above the light gives a prominent place to the name of the street. The letters, three inches in height in round-faced characters, stand out boldly, and when it is done throughout all the streets, New-York will be the best lighted and best street-lamp directed City in the Union."—Commercial Advertiser, Oct. 25.

J. W. Bartlett, Esq., No. 569 Broadway, New-York:

DEAR SIR: You ask my opinion in writing of the street lamps introduced in this City by you.

I give it with pleasure. I have not seen any to equal them either in this country or in Europe. They are stronger and in every way superior to any other with which I am acquainted, and not only better, but far more sightly in appearance.

Sincerely yours,
CHARLES ROOME, President.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The great attraction at the Exchange yesterday, (Thursday,) Nov. 14, and a transaction in which decided interest was manifested by the large number of investors present, was the Supreme Court sale in foreclosure, under the direction of H. A. Bogert, Esq., referee, in charge of Muller, Wilkins & Co., of a lot 25 by 100, situate on the east side of Fifth-avenue, fronting Central Park, 59.5 feet north of Sixty-sixth-street; started at $40,000. The lot was sold to Charles L. Cornish for $53,000—a very fair figure—and one showing the high estimate placed upon property located on this leading thoroughfare. In addition to the above, under two Supreme Court foreclosure decrees, Messrs. Henry Nichol and Chas. E. Crowell, respectively referee, E. H. Ludlow & Co. disposed of the following realty: One four-story brick store, tenement, and lot, No. 74 Jackson-street, east side, 26 feet north of Front-street, lot 19.4 by 75, sold for $1,600 over and above incumbrances, amounting to $9,750, making the total price realized $11,350; purchaser, Alban V. Elliot, plaintiff in the legal action; one four-story and basement brick store and lot, No. 68 Front-street, between Old and Coenties Slips, lot 20.6 by 92.6; sold for $17,100 to Patrick H. Fay. This same property was sold in September for $16,250, but the purchaser at that sale having failed to qualify, a resale was made yesterday, with the result noted. Messrs. Ludlow & Co. also offered at public auction the premises known as No. 40 West Eighteenth-street, south side, 285 feet east of Sixth-avenue, embracing a lot 25 by 92, with four-story and basement brick building thereon, but no adequate bids being received, the property was withdrawn. James M. Miller, under a Supreme Court foreclosure order, Hon. Josiah Sutherland referee, sold a three-story and basement brown-stone house and lot, situate on the east side of Second-avenue, 235 feet west of Fifty-fifth-street, lot 20 by 63, for $13,617, the purchaser being C. J. Goeller. The property was sold subject to mortgages amounting, with interest, &c., to $8,617. The same auctioneer also again adjourned the legal sale of the store and lot No. 99 Church-street until Dec. 10, and this announcement closed the day's business.

The suburban auction held at Newark, N. J., on Wednesday, Nov. 13, by A. D. Mellick, Jr., & Brother, at which 100 lots, situate respectively on Branford and Runyon streets, Elizabeth, Halstead, and Frelinghuysen avenues, were offered, was well attended, and the result, when the lateness of the season is considered, in a great degree a success, for forty-five lots were sold for $25,260 in the aggregate, an average of $561 apiece. The highest-priced lot sold was located on Elizabeth-avenue, bringing $1,250, and the lowest on Runyon-street, selling for $330. The buyers at the auction were as follows: J. P. Willett, F. Howland, and M. Canfield, of this City; D. W. Hendrickson, Julius Hane, P. N. Marshall, Wm. Riley, Mrs. Griffith, Thomas Schell, and A. A. Leake, of Newark; R. H. Boorman, of Elizabeth, and Wm. H. Fairchild, of Whitehaven, Penn.

Cole & Murphy, real estate auctioneers, Brooklyn, report having sold at auction on Wednesday, in that city, under a Supreme Court foreclosure order, the following Brooklyn realty: Seven lots, each 22 by 100, on Wyckoff-street, 27.6 feet east of Fifth-avenue, sold to R. Noble for $1,750 each; three lots on Bergen-street, in rear of above, 76 feet west of Flatbush-avenue, each 20 by 100, sold to same buyer for $1,325 each; one lot adjoining above, same size, sold to Daniel Seymour and Louis M. Levy for $1,300; three lots adjoining, sold to R. Noble for $1,125 each, and four lots adjoining, each 20 by 100, sold to J. Atwater for $925 each.

For to-day, the following auctions are announced, at which property as noted will be offered: By Hugh N. Camp, at the Exchange, at a legal sale by order of the Court of Common Pleas, three houses and lots adjoining each other, situate on the west side of Lexington-avenue, 109 feet north of Fiftieth-street. Lots in size respectively, 20 by 80, 23.10 by 64.10, and 24 by 64.10. By Jas. M. Miller, at the Exchange, at a Supreme Court sale, the store and lot No. 24 Coenties-slip. Lot 24.2 by 50.9. Also, at a similar sale, a house and lot on the north side of East One Hundred and Nineteenth-street, 130 feet east of Avenue A.; lot 19.9 by 100.10. Also, at a similar sale, a house and lot on the west side of Lexington-avenue, 48 feet south of Fifty-first-street; lot 23.10 by 64.10. (This latter property is one of the same houses noticed for sale above by H. N. Camp under another Court order.) By Wm. Kennelly, at a Sheriff's sale, by order of Court of Common Pleas, a house and lot on the south side of West Thirty-second-street, 116.8 feet east of Ninth-avenue; lot 16.2 by 98.9. Also, at a similar sale, the house and lot No. 419 Cherry-street; lot 25 by 81.8. Also, at a similar sale, a seventh part interest in the following City realty: One lot, 25 by 100, with building, No. 78 Henry-street, south side, 62.6 feet south of Birmingham-street; one lot, 23.4 by 85, with building, Nos. 121, 123 and 125 East Broadway, south-east corner Pike-street; one lot, 20 by 75, with building, No. 171 Broome-street, south side, 120 feet west of Attorney-street; one lot, 21.3 by 100, with building, No. 140 Clinton-street, 80 feet south of Broome-street, and one lot, 25 by 100, with building, No. 148 Clinton-street, adjoining above, 175 feet north of Grand street. A Sheriff's sale, at the City Hall, is also noticed for to-day, of a house and lot on the north side of East Seventy-eighth-street, 287.2 feet east of Fourth-avenue; lot 18 by 102.2.

INDIANAPOLIS, BLOOMINGTON

AND

WESTERN RAILWAY.

The Short Central Trunk Route.

This road has been in operation from Indianapolis to Pekin, 202 miles, for two years. Its earnings have rapidly increased, and are now at a rate sufficient to pay all current expenses, interest on all its Bonded Indebtedness, including that made for its Extension, and, in addition, a dividend upon its Stock.

The Extension is 217 miles in length, and connects Champaign with the Mississippi River at Keokuk. It passes through a well-developed part of the State of Illinois, abounding in resources for a great business, and it must in a short time equal in receipts the other part of the Road with which it is consolidated, making a total line of 420 miles. Intimate western connections make this route the most direct between the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts.

The entire road traverses a very fertile region, and possesses the best subsidy a road can have, viz.: IMMENSE BUSINESS IMMEDIATELY AT COMMAND.

Under a fair valuation, the property of the older part of the road, above prior obligations, is fully equal in amount to the Bonds now issued, which are further and completely secured by a first and only mortgage on the extension, one-half of which is near completion, and the remainder will be finished early in 1873.

The Bonds are Seven Per Cent. Gold, $1,000 each, convertible into stock at par at the option of the owner, and may be registered without charge. PRICE 90 AND ACCRUED INTEREST in currency. Coupons, January and July 1, free of tax.

We recommend the Bonds to all classes of investors as an undoubted security.
